BRITISH SPIRITUALIST SAYS SHE 'TALKED' TO MACKENZIE KING AFTER DEATH

Ex-PM Much Happier on 'The Other Side'

By PETER MATTHEWS

Late prime minister Mackenzie King "visited" a British spiritualist after his death and told her he was "enjoying life much better on the Other Side than on Earth."

This startling revelation was made on the CBC-TV show "Close-Up" Thursday night by Mrs. Helen Hughes, a Scottish practitioner of the occult science. She was being interviewed by Douglas Leiterman.

King also told her that he knew about the Liberal party setback in 1957 and 1958 but always stood ready "to help the party."

The CBC show, second in a two-part recorded video autobiography, confirmed once and for all stories that the late prime minister was actively interested in spiritualism.

None of his colleagues, however, would concede that he allowed this interest to influence his political decisions.

Several said they regarded it as "an interesting hobby."

One secretary, Edouard Handy, said he "felt it his duty to warn Mr. King" that public knowledge of the interest could severely damage his political career.

"Think what would happen if the Tories got hold of it," chuckled biographer and historian Fred McGregor. "They could have charged the Liberals with 'government by spooks'."

Another secretary said:

"I didn't pay much attention to it. It was his business. He kept his papers on the subject in a separate room and we didn't meddle. We called it 'The dark room' and left it alone."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, interviewed on the same show, said he was aware of King's interest in the occult during his lifetime but "since it hadn't been discussed then, I'd prefer not to discuss it now."

Leiterman said that research had shown King visited spiritualists in Winnipeg, Hamilton, Detroit, Chicago and Atlantic City, as well as the U.K., during his lifetime.

A British writer and spiritualist named Miss Cummings told Leiterman of a King visit. She was not aware of his identity and was "embarrassed" later when she learned she had been talking to the prime minister of Canada in rather peremptory tones.

A practitioner of "automatic writing," in which psychic persons are said to take down direct messages from people who have died, Miss Cummings read from a letter which purported to come from the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt told King, in the letter, that he was to watch out for trouble in Asia. He addressed King as "Mac."

(Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, later in the same broadcast, confirmed that King had been reluctant to have Canada participate in a Korean study, a year before the war broke out in that country.

("He seemed peculiarly sensitive to the area.")

"While King was alive, did he ever communicate with his beloved dog, Pat?" Mr. Leiterman asked.

Mrs. Hughes replied: "No, I don't think it's possible to communicate with animals."

"Could you put me in touch with Mr. King now?" the CBC man asked.

"Not just like that," Mrs. Hughes replied. "One has to prepare for these things. And one never knows when one can get through."

"When did you last talk to King?" Leiterman asked.

"Three weeks ago," the spiritualist replied.

Earlier, the British spiritualists had said that King at various times talked to his mother and "other members of his family", while still prime minister of Canada. He died in 1950.

In the first half of the broadcast, various Canadians who had known King continued their assessment of his life and career.

Professor A. M. Lower of Queen's, explained an equation he had devised to define King: "CV plus TB divided by two equals K."

Asked to explain he said:

"Cardinal Villeneuve plus Tim Buck, divided down the middle, equals Mackenzie King."

What he meant, Professor Lower said, was that "King ended up somewhere in the middle, as the average Canadian.

"He had a somewhat feminine intuition which enabled him to sense the pulse of his people."

Times editor Bruce Hutchison, interviewed at Shawnigan Lake, said that King was "a greedy man—greedy for fame, for money, and above all, for power.

"Considering that he was in many ways a small man, the total Mackenzie King was far greater than the sum of his parts.

"I would say that he and Sir John A. Macdonald were the two greatest statesmen of our history. Undoubtedly Macdonald was a much more attractive man, but it is hard to say who will be adjudged the greatest by history."

What Many Early Birds Missed in the Mist

Haul of $1,000 From City Store

Professional safecrackers, defying a crackdown by city police, overnight Thursday blew open a city firm's vault and escaped with $1,000.

The theft, the latest in a long string of safecrackings and burglaries, occurred at the retail store of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co., 2619 Bridge Street.

Only five days ago, after a bullet punctuated car chase, police arrested two men and charged them with attempted break-in at People's Credit Jewelers Ltd., 1104 Douglas.

At least three others escaped in a hail of police bullets after their car was rammed by a policeman's private car.

FROM VANCOUVER

Police blame the crime wave on professional Vancouver gangs.

The burglary at Moore-Whittington came as a surprise to police who were hopeful the gangs would move out following the capture of two of their number.

The thieves, believed three, broke a third-storey window to enter the hardware store of the lumber company.

They gained access to the safe by removing some boards from the wall halfway up the staircase.

Then they planted dynamite on top of the brick ceiling of the safe and blew a hole two feet in diameter.

They entered the safe, smashed the mechanism of the vault door and opened it.

COFFEE MONEY

Cash, including about $50 of employees' coffee money, was taken by the thieves who also ransacked the company records.

They took their time in doing their job. They used the employees' hotplate to make coffee. Three empty cups were found.

They also used some company tools, such as axes and crowbars, to facilitate their way into the safe.

They apparently left by a side door.

The theft was discovered this morning when the store was reopened.

WEST URGES WORLD-WIDE ARMS CENSUS

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers today proposed a world-wide census of existing armed forces and weapons as a first step toward a disarmament treaty.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch made the suggestion on behalf of the five Western delegates at another closed session of the 10-nation disarmament conference.

He said the control of any agreed disarmament measures would be an illusion without full information on the size and strength of existing armed forces.

Echoing the West's most insistent demand, Moch said adequate control and inspection to insure compliance must be an integral part of any disarmament agreement.

Big Western Powers Lose Sea Law Vote

GENEVA (AP) — The big Western maritime powers suffered defeat in a vote on a significant procedural matter in the 84-nation law of the sea conference today. Latin American, Asian-African and Communist delegations lined up against them.

The vote on the second day of the conference may have a decisive effect on the month-long negotiation of a new universal limit of territorial waters, and coastal fishing rights.

The conference decided by a vote of 41 to 30 that discussion of a proposal or amendment which has once been voted on may be taken up again only if two-thirds of the delegates agree. There were seven abstentions.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, Sir Gerald Fitzmaurice of Britain and George Drew of Canada led the fight against the change in the conference rules, which was proposed by Mexico's Alfonso Garcia Robles.

The old maritime nations favor a six-mile limit for the territorial sea, while an apparent majority group seeks international recognition for a minimum limit of 12 miles. Apparently neither of the two groups has the necessary two-thirds majority to make either concept a principle of international law.

In this situation, where one or two votes may be decisive, bargaining outside the conference sessions plays an important part.

HUGE U.S. WASTE?

Buried Treasure 'Orgies'

TORONTO (CP) — United States military personnel at an isolated northern Ontario base are burying thousands of dollars worth of material ranging from washing machines to outboard motors, the Ontario legislature was told today.

Albert Wren (L. Lab-Kenora) said the weird burial parties were conducted at a radar base between Sioux Lookout and Hudson.

Bulldozers are shoving earth over washing machines, outboard motors, skiffs and other material at the rate of $35,000 worth a week, he said.

"I could cry," Mr. Wren said, "when I think of the people there who have never had a washing machine."

Mr. Wren, in whose riding the base is located, said he knew no reason for the burial project. It was done on orders from Washington and perhaps Ottawa.

Hope Given Up For 4 in Tunnel

TORONTO (CP)—Hope was practically abandoned today for four construction workers trapped in a water-choked tunnel 30 feet underground in suburban North York.

Six were caught in the six-foot high tunnel when a flash fire started by a short-circuited cable cut them off from the exit passage. One man was dragged out by a two-man rescue team and the body of the other was brought up early today. A seventh man had managed to scramble out by himself.

Seven hours of dramatic rescue operations had to be halted at 11.15 a.m. PST. A labor department official at the scene said:

"There is no hope for the four trapped men."

Police and construction company officials identified the four still trapped as John Fusillo, 27, Guido Mantella, 23,

Mrs. Davis Not Guilty

Mrs. Edith Etheline Davis was found "not guilty by reason of insanity" by an Assize Court jury at 1.30 p.m. today after being out only three-quarters of an hour.

Mr. Justice Verchere said she would be returned to Essondale Mental Hospital and kept there "in strict custody until pleasure of the lieutenant-governor is known."

House Set To Prorogue

The B.C. government's supply bill authorizing the expenditure in the next fiscal year of $331,120,119 passed third reading in the legislature at 11.30 this morning.

The House adjourned until 2 p.m. for discussion of motions by private members.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross was expected to prorogue the House at 5 p.m. after sitting 37 days in a seven-week session.

Bomb Probe As 63 Killed

TELL CITY, Ind. (UPI)—Civil Aeronautics Board experts and the FBI dug into a blackened 50-foot crater today to learn whether a bomb or some other instrument of sabotage sent 63 persons falling 18,000 feet to their deaths aboard a new Northwest Airlines' passenger plane.

Four of the victims were Canadians.

A C.A.B. spokesman said the $2,400,000 turbo-prop, carrying 57 passengers and six crewmen from Minneapolis and Chicago to Florida, "obviously broke up in the air." He said searchers would "investigate all possibilities, including a bomb.

Edward Slattery, information chief of the C.A.B., said the agency's men also would check whether "metal fatigue or some other undue stress in the plane" caused the craft to disintegrate over the Ohio River valley and plunge into a soybean field Thursday afternoon.

FBI agent-in-charge Edward Powers, heading nearly a score of G-Men at the scene, said the FBI was there "to determine whether there were any violations within our jurisdiction, principally the possibility of sabotage."

State troopers still were gathering up remains in bags today and carting them away to a high school gymnasium in nearby Cannelton.

"There are no bodies," Slattery said.

An early morning air search spotted the tail assembly of the plane in the rough hill country a mile and a half east of the central crash scene.

The Canadians were E. R. Gardner, 55, president of the Winnipeg brokerage firm of Oldfield, Kirby and Gardner; his 16-year-old son Derek; George H. Heuchert, about 55, president of Leonard and Mc-

ROYAL WEDDING 'LIVE' ON BRITISH TELEVISION

LONDON (UPI)—Permission was granted today to make Princess Margaret's marriage the first royal wedding in history to be televised live.

Cameras and microphones will be placed in Westminster Abbey on May 6 to broadcast and televise Margaret's wedding to former photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Permission for live broadcasts came from the Dean of Westminster.

Queen Elizabeth's wedding in 1947 was broadcast by the BBC, but not televised.

A BBC spokesman said the amount of the ceremony to be shown depends on the wishes of the Royal Family and the Abbey authorities.

IN THE HOUSE WITH Norman Cribbens

After close on two months of listening to political cross-talk, day and night, there is a danger of becoming almost impregnated with parliamentary pomposity.

Hence when you meet some joker on the street who says, "You're not getting any thinner, are you?" there is a temptation to reply:

"I must ask the honorable friend to withdraw that remark. It is most unseemly in the circumstances."

Or when your daughter calls her brother a "stinker" across the dinner table, you may rise in your place and declaim:

"That is a reprehensible expression which cannot be tolerated in this house."

Then . . . when your wife says, "It is time I had a new hat," you may answer in ministerial tones:

"It is not entirely beyond the bounds of monetary expediency that your request will be considered in the not too distant future."

With the prorogation of the legislature this afternoon, life returns to normal for the 50-odd MLAs who have sat here since Jan. 28. As Dan Campbell, the member for Comox, remarked:

"Most of our work is done between the sessions. We get dozens of letters every week all the year round and no conscientious member can ignore any one of them."

★ ★ ★

In the dying hours of the 1960 session, members threshed over estimates for the social welfare department, and there was considerable debate over the Brannen Lake School for Boys, near Nanaimo.

Many suggested ways of dealing with delinquent boys, but Cedric Cox (CCF, Burnaby) asked for a home for delinquent parents.

"There are boys at Brannen Lake who would rather stay there than go home to their mothers and fathers. And I have heard of parents who don't want their boys discharged because it interferes with their pleasures."

★ ★ ★

Bert Price, the argumentative Social Credit member for Vancouver Burrard, has achieved an unfortunate reputation for attacking social workers.

He stated, a while ago, that they weren't particularly efficient by his standards. During the debate on delinquents he said:

"There are good and bad social workers. If you don't have the right personality for looking after these boys, all the training in the world won't make you efficient."

Premier Bennett returned to the House Thursday afternoon wearing a vivid green tie in honor of St. Patrick's Day. He is beginning to look more like his old (bouncy) self following an operation last Jan. 22.

He is expected to leave for California next week for a recuperative vacation. Late next May he will make a tour of Britain—his first visit to the Mother Country.

An enterprising member of the House is said to have offered the teetotal premier a list of famous pubs to visit. To which he is said to have replied:

"There are so many interesting things to see over there I may not get round to them!"

PM, Pearson Pay Tribute To Tom Foley

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Pearson issued statements of sympathy Tuesday on learning of the death of Tom Foley, well-known Ottawa radio and TV personality, in a Toronto car crash.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Foley "had endeared himself to the legion of his friends. To his daughters and his parents I extend my sympathy."

Mr. Pearson said "his lively and informed commentaries have added greatly to the enjoyment of the sports scene in Canada." He added: "He will be greatly missed by his numerous friends, and my deepest sympathy goes out to his four small daughters who have, in one year, lost their mother and father."

Car Crash Victim 'Satisfactory'

William Armstrong, 55, of Saseenos, hit by a car in the village business district about 7.30 p.m. Wednesday, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He suffered leg injuries.

$400,000 LOSS AT TORONTO PLANT

'Full Forces' to Probe Huge Strike Scene Blast

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, of Ontario, said today "the full forces" of the provincial police and fire marshal's office have been ordered into the investigation of a $400,000 explosion and fire Thursday night at a trucking yard, scene of a wildcat strike.

Mr. Roberts called it "a crime of major proportions."

The fire, fed by 550 gallons of gasoline which poured from a jammed gasoline pump, destroyed a fleet of highway tractors in the yards of Gill Interprovincial Lines, Limited, at nearby Malton.

Police said they believe the gasoline was ignited by a truck flare thrown into the area. A burned-out flare was found between the pump and the most heavily damaged tractors.

The lock on the pump had been forced and the hose's control nozzle sprung open with a pencil. Five workers in the yard escaped injury.

Earlier in the day the company, which has head offices in Vancouver, obtained an injunction against 40 employees, members of Local 938, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (CLC), prohibiting them from picketing the yard.

T. F. Bowers, the company's Ontario district manager, said drivers and loaders staged a wildcat walkout Monday following the laying off of 18 of 60 Toronto-area employees. He said the company and union have an agreement prohibiting lockouts and walkouts.

Since the walkout, Mr. Bowers said there have been telephoned threats of violence to company officials and drivers who kept working.

James Millar, a private investigator hired by the company following alleged threats of violence, said some pickets remained on the scene after the writ was served about 5 p.m. He said he had just called police for assistance in clearing a road at the yard when the explosion occurred.

The tractors were valued at about $40,000 each.

Toronto terminal manager T. L. Young said the fire loss would not affect the company's operations. The firm will load under police protection trailers destined for western Canada.

The company hauls cargo from Toronto to Vancouver.

MARGARET TRIGGERS MILLION-MILE SIGNAL

JODRELL BANK, Eng. (UPI)—Princess Margaret today switched on the transmitter of America's Pioneer V and heard its signals from 1,040,000 miles out in space.

The princess pressed the black button putting the transmitter into action at 2.25 p.m. and the signals bounced back 25 seconds later.

The princess' private visit to the giant radio telescope had been arranged before the launching of Pioneer V.

The fact she actually switched on the transmitter came as a surprise. So did the fact she walked up the telescope tower and onto a catwalk 160 feet above the ground.

The high-pitched squeal broke the satellite's own long distance record for space communications, sending back to U.S. scientists a series of technical reports on cosmic rays, radiation and micrometeorites.

McNAUGHTON'S VIEW

'High Arrow' Dam Little Use

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said today a high Arrow dam on the Columbia River would provide no added benefits for Canada.

The chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission said in the Commons external affairs committee that a high Arrow dam would only draw off benefits at Mica Creek farther upstream.

Gen. McNaughton was commenting on the statement of H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) that the Castlegar, B.C., Chamber of Commerce has opposed high Arrow because of flooding it would cause.

STORAGE RESERVOIRS

The general said that to get power development of the Columbia River started, storage reservoirs will have to be built first in Canada.

This meant that in the initial stages Canada would have to depend for its share of power on the power generated at U.S. plants on the Columbia through use of the water stored in Canada.

"The later starting period for power development gives us trouble and is the period when our negotiators have got to look after us," he said.

This was a reference to current governmental negotiations between Canada and the U.S. on Columbia River development.

REFERS TO DAMSITE

Gen. McNaughton said the question of damsites in Canada was a matter for the Canadian and British Columbia governments and not for the International Joint Commission.

It would cost about $25,000,000 per million acre-feet for water storage in Canada compared with $106,000,000 in the United States.

Thus there was a "remarkable opportunity" to realize increased power output in the U.S. at "exceptionally low cost" for storage in Canada. This would be a "highly profitable" arrangement for both countries.

Building of reservoirs in Canada instead of the U.S. would save U.S. taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

Gen. McNaughton also repeated Canadian objections to a dam at Libby, Mont., on the Kootenai, an international river like the Columbia. This would only mean a "donation" of Canadian resources to the U.S.

TV Chain Proposed In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A company that proposes to make the new Toronto private television station the "flagship" of a fleet of independent Canadian TV stations today placed its bid for a licence before the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Headed by Toronto lawyer Henry Borden, the company includes 60 individual shareholders and the Southam Company Limited, owner of several Canadian newspapers.

Mr. Borden said that within 90 days of going on the air Toronto Telecasters Syndicate would be distributing 7½ hours a week of original TV programs for showing across Canada by private stations. Program production would be stepped up to 10 hours weekly after 15 months.

Baffin Island in Canada's Arctic covers 183,800 square miles, compared to 12,408 square miles for Vancouver Island.

Priest Jailed 20 Years By Chinese Reds Court

TOKYO (AP)—A Shanghai people's court today sentenced American Roman Catholic Bishop James Edward Walsh of Cumberland, Md., to 20 years' imprisonment.

Communist China's Peking radio heard here said Bishop Walsh had been under arrest since October, 1958, on charges of "plotting to overthrow the new China."

Most recent word about the 68-year-old prelate was that he was under detention in a Shanghai hospital.

The bishop's sentence follows by one day the announcement of sentences ranging from five years to life for 14 Chinese Catholics in Shanghai. A Peking radio report accused Bishop Walsh of leading them in a campaign to undermine the Chinese Communist regime.

The life sentence went to Bishop Kung Pin-mei of Shanghi who had been under arrest for several years. Peking radio charged that Bishop Walsh instructed Bishop Kung and other Chinese Catholics in a counter-revolutionary plot "hiding under the guise of religion."

Four other Americans are imprisoned in Communist China on espionage charges. They are John T. Downey, New Britain, Conn.; Richard G. Fecteau, Lynn, Mass.; R. E. McCann, Altadena, Calif., and Hugh F. Redmont Jr., Yonkers, N.Y. Downey and Fecteau were U.S. Army civilian employees captured during the Korean War. The other two were businessmen arrested in China. Their terms range from 15 years to life.

'HOLD MY CANE,' HE TOLD THE FBI MAN IN COURT

$30,000 Canadian Caper on Bogus Credit

NEW YORK (CP)—Dapper was the word for 35-year-old Charles Gregory Cannon, a Canadian who left his Toronto home to seek his fortune in the United States.

But now he is under arrest in connection with what the FBI charges were forged cheque and credit card activities.

Posing as an English gentleman, Cannon carried a silver-headed cane, wore spats and sported a carnation in his button-hole.

Women who saw him stroll through the lobby of a fashionable east side hotel, where he had a $45-a-day suite, described him as the best-dressed man they had ever seen.

FBI agents identified him as an escaped convict who had sawed his way out of a Miami jail last year.

In his hotel suite, agents said, they found a half-dozen or so well-tailored suits, six derbies in various colors and stacks of luxurious shirts.

They also said they found an efficient printing outfit and a cheque-writing machine. Cannon told them that he had passed $20,000 worth of bogus cheques and used credit cards to get $30,000 worth of goods and services.

Negroes Keep Up Battle

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negro sit-down demonstrators continued to troop through the jails and courts of the southern United States Thursday, but showed no signs of forsaking the lunch counter battlefront.

Negro spectators marched straight from the trial of five demonstrators at Little Rock, Ark., to invade downtown stores in a series of protests against segregation.

In two other cities swift police action averted near-riots.

A group of white men and youths used their fists on four Negro college students leaving a St. Augustine, Fla., variety store after staging a sit-down protest.

Hundreds of whites and Negroes stood on opposite sides of a Savannah, Ga., street and hurled insults at each other during a St. Patrick's Day parade. Police dispersed the jeering mob.

There were new arrests at New Bern, N.C., where 29 Negroes were jailed on trespassing charges and released under $25 bonds after refusing to leave lunch counters at two stores.

The Little Rock demonstrators were not arrested. Managers of the five stores closed their lunch counters and the Negroes left.

The five tried in municipal court for a demonstration a week ago drew $250 fines and 30-day jail sentences.

Eleven others were fined $300 and given 30-day suspended jail sentences at Tallahassee, Fla.

MPs PICKED TOLL BRIDGE EMPLOYEES

OTTAWA (CP) — Recommendations by Members of Parliament or "other important persons" influenced hiring pracice by the National Harbors Board on Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge, the Commons railways committee was told Thursday.

"In cases where two candidates had equal qualifications, the preference was given to the one recommended by an MP or some other person," port manager Guy Beaudet testified.

He was continuing to give evidence in a committee investigation of the bridge, subject of three police probes since 1957. RCMP, now preparing criminal charges as a result of toll-collecting irregularities, intervened last fall for the third time when installation of an automatic collecting system brought a series of threats to board personnel and MPs.

Why Indians Are Afraid Of the Vote

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator James Gladstone pleaded Thursday on behalf of his Indian people for understanding of their fears in being granted the right to vote in general elections.

The 72-year-old Senator — a treaty Indian of Alberta's Blood tribe who himself is without the vote now—moved second reading of bills to amend the Indian Act and the Canada Elections Act to grant treaty Indians the vote.

One reason the proposal is viewed with distrust by the Indians, he said, is fear that their status as treaty Indians will eventually be drained away.

Another was that in the past the only way Indians could get the vote was to sign away their exemption from paying income tax. They were afraid the next step might be to make them pay.

"If I thought for one moment that any of these fears were justified, I would fight this bill to the very end," said the Senator, whose Indian name is Many Guns.

Defence Policy Debate Stifled in Committee

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The government refused Thursday night to broaden the scope of a special Commons defence committee.

As a result, the committee's investigation—at least in its early stages—will be limited to defence expenditures which occurred in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1959.

The Commons voted 114 to 35 to reject a CCF amendment which, in effect, would have eliminated the time limit. The Progressive Conservative majority swamped 28 Liberal and seven CCF votes.

Defence Minister Pearkes indicated that after the committee examines the 1958-59 expenditures it will get an opportunity to look into the 1960-61 estimates. This would require a new government motion.

Opposition Leader Pearson described the committee examination of 1958-59 defence expenditures as a "mockery of an investigation."

Out of Order

His amendment for a committee study of the effectiveness of Canada's defence system for national security was ruled out of order by Speaker Roland Michener.

Harold Winch, CCF-Vancouver East, said the government hasn't got a defence policy and doesn't dare have the matter examined.

He described the government motion setting up the committee as a "waste of time" and "meaningless."

Mr. Pearkes said he has nothing to fear and can "stand four square on our defence policy."

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, said all defence spending is a waste of money and that Canada hasn't a single modern weapon to deter an aggressive power.

The Commons gave final approval to a bill increasing the lending capacity of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to $1,500,000,000 from $1,000,000,000 and sent it to the Senate.

Toronto Liberal Paul Hellyer, a builder, assailed CMHC's plan to make direct loans for home mortgages only to persons with incomes of $5,000 or less.

Mr. Hellyer said under the new bill a childless couple with an income of $4,950 a year would be entitled to a CMHC loan while a couple with five children and an income of $5,050 would not be.

Under a regulation to be announced after the bill becomes law, CMHC will be instructed to give preference in making loans to the $5,000 and under income earners.

The government will consider extending the winter works program for another month if municipalities as a whole make such a request, Labor Minister Starr said.

Lost in the Woods

JUDGE C. W. MORROW RECOMMENDS that the Government "in the near future take under advisement the entire problem of forest tenure, more particularly in relation to tree farm licenses."

His recommendation is an outgrowth of inquiries initiated by the late Gordon McG. Sloan, advisor to the Provincial Government on forestry matters prior to his untimely death. The former Chief Justice had been studying complaints that tree farm license holders enjoyed an unfair advantage in bidding for Crown timber. Judge Morrow completed the unfinished assignment.

The nature of the Morrow recommendation leaves in question a vital point. Is he suggesting an investigation which might lead to the scrapping of the entire tree farm license system—the basic element in current policy aimed at controlling private forestry in the interests of sustained yield? Or is he advocating a more modest consideration of the subject, aimed at removing some of the "bugs" from the present system.

If the elimination of the tree farm license is contemplated in the proposal, it seems to run contrary to the view of the late Chief Justice. Mr. Sloan found that the system, "rough-cast in spots and not free from defects," still met "the pragmatic test: it works".

Certainly the system adopted by the Government following the first Sloan report in 1945 is open to improvement. But any investigation into it should keep in mind its principal objective—the establishment and maintenance of sustained yield forestry.

Moreover, no inquiry can ignore the fact that tree farm license contracts have been made between the Government and the licensees for timber tracts—just as contracts, some of them improvident by present-day standards, cover other forms of tenure.

And on the basis of some of those contracts big companies have made heavy investments in conversion plants which could not be justified without the continuous supply of timber which tree farm licenses assure them.

The intent of a proposed investigation of tenures should be spelled out in greater detail. It could be useful in suggesting improvements. But if major changes are concerned, it seems more logical to follow the recommendations of the late Chief Justice. He advised the Government to undertake a review of the whole matter of British Columbia forest resources in 1966.

The last Royal Commission completed its work scarcely four years ago. What point would there be in calling for another full-scale inquiry or Royal Commission "in the near future"? Limited investigation, undertaken by the department and the advisor might improve the existing system, but even here a development of the last year or two should be noted.

Except in a very few special cases, and then only on the recommendation of the late Mr. Sloan, no applications for tree farm licences have been granted. The bulk of them, well over 100, have been rejected.

A Health Plan Must Wait

HEALTH MINISTER MONTEITH'S recent statement removes any prospect of nationwide health insurance in the early future. He very properly advocates a settling down period for national hospital insurance before the country embarks on a highly controversial health program.

This is common sense. Hospital insurance arrangements have not yet been completed with all the provinces. It would be foolish to move further into the field of state responsibility for medical service until the ground already occupied has been fully cultivated.

When or if the Federal Government deems it wise to proceed with a medical plan, it must study a number of systems, some in effect elsewhere, some applied on a private basis within this country.

A large proportion of our employed citizens is already covered by such schemes as the M.S.A. This is an effective plan which protects members from crippling bills in the event of family illness. Moreover, social services as they now exist provide relief for the indigent.

Apart from those able to look after themselves by paying insurance premiums and those cared for by the state because they cannot afford to look after themselves, there is, of course, a large number of people of very modest means who lack coverage of any type. Their position deserves study, although it is generally believed that individual doctors take into account the means of patients when making out bills or foregoing bills altogether.

The campaign for state medicine will not, of course, be brought to a complete stop by Mr. Monteith's statement opposing nationwide health insurance at this time. Nor will the doctors remain silent in their opposition to state medicine. The other day, for instance, Dr. J. F. Tysoe, past president of the British Columbia Medical Association, brought public attention to his group's opinion.

The doctors, he said, favor maximum use of prepaid medical plans rather than socialized medicine. And they favor such schemes because, under state medicine, they feel that the doctors are forced to give more and more service for a fixed return and, in consequence, lack the opportunity to provide desirable, if not essential, attention to individual patients.

The complexities of nationwide health insurance are obvious to anyone who has given them thought. Mr. Monteith does well to advise Canadians that the Government intends to digest hospital insurance before biting into health insurance.

TV Repair Racket

PARLIAMENT WAS TOLD THE other day that a television repair racket is flourishing in Canada.

Mr. W. M. Martin, of Timmins, has described the practice of "unscrupulous television repair shops that by any device they can use will go into homes, obtain television sets, take them to their shops and then literally hold them for ransom."

He has investigated one specific case, checked on others and found that victims of sharp practice in repairs have little protection under the law as it exists.

Mr. Martin dealt specifically with one Ottawa concern which operates under several different names. By implication at least, the racket is not restricted to the federal capital.

His plea for investigation and action by the minister of justice, with amendments to the law if necessary, won parliamentary support. So it should. Since television provides information and entertainment for the whole public and is a particular comfort to so many aged people and shut-ins, any company which victimizes them should be subject to prompt and effective punishment.

Moreover, those honest repairmen who give excellent service at reasonable charges, deserve protection from the men who are bringing their business into disrepute.

Curdling the Milk

WITHIN LIMITS, THE PUBLIC accepted Ferdinand, the bull with the delicate ego, and Elsie, the glamour-girl cow, as figures in a new folklore.

The public has also swallowed "milk, food in its most nearly perfect form."

There is something a little sour, though, in the efforts of milk industry spokesmen at Pullman, Washington, to make the public think of milk in terms of a social drink and a status symbol.

Why should it be a social drink? What's wrong with it as a nutrient, and a good one? Why compare it at all to coffee, tea, beer, liquor or soft drinks in the "socially acceptable" class?

It is surprising to hear the solemn pronouncement from a milk industry executive director that a $140,000 survey has shown that many people are embarrassed if they serve milk on formal occasions or even when close friends are present.

We can't see an impeccably-gowned hostess flitting among her guests, armed with a gleaming silver shaker from which she pours milk into dinky glasses. But who wants milk that way?

A FALSE SUPERIORITY

By B. A. TOBIN

The White Faces Wear the Dark Looks

VARIOUS publications in the United States have presented photographs, from time to time designed to show the "face of America." They may feature natural scenery, industrial processes, examples of the good abundant life, or the varieties of people of all races and backgrounds who make up that great nation. Perhaps the faces of the individuals are the most revealing of all, for in a sense they indicate not only the picture of today but also what will be the picture tomorrow. They give a hint of what will be done with the scenery and the natural resources, with the industrial plants and the abundant life, and whether these will be used for good or otherwise.

Tobin

In a melting-pot country such as the United States, and to perhaps a lesser degree in Canada, a wide variety of faces can be found for such a display. By careful selection a cross section of the world might be obtained.

But the face of America is being shown in another, less premeditated way these days. It is being exposed in news photographs, taken in an instant of time and mirroring the looks and actions — and the thoughts — of hundreds of human beings without their knowledge.

Among the most expressive examples of photography are the pictures we see of mob scenes in the southern states, when white citizens are shown demonstrating their superiority over Negro citizens.

Let it be clearly understood — this "face of America" is not the typical one, except insofar as it is typical of a large section of the white population in the South. It can be balanced by even more American faces which would show the disgust and revulsion which active racial prejudice has raised.

But the mob faces in the southern pictures are real and they are many. And they are not pretty to look at.

Particularly memorable was a candid shot taken during the Little Rock demonstrations, in which a young Negro girl walked with lifted head and composed features through a crowd of jeering white youths. The camera caught a tableau that must have impressed even an anti-Negro observer.

The girl's face held a nun-like purity and calm, reflecting nothing of the inner turmoil she must have felt. The youths' faces were a study in expressions and characters that would have fascinated Rembrandt or Hogarth. Thin eyes of cruelty, thin lips of hatred, the incarnate look of the pack in full cry after a victim that cannot fight back.

Seeing the contrast between the dark face and the white faces, it was hard not to feel racial prejudice — against the white.

Public Attack

Another picture from the same time and place showed a group of young whites harrying and kicking a middle-aged Negro in a public street. The face of the black man was troubled with fear and pain, and again the white faces showed, as though they had been made up by Hollywood to portray a part, the ugly lines of hatred, contempt and cruelty.

The renewed unrest in the South today has produced another crop of revealing photos. There again are the patient masks of Negro college students parading down a street, citizens of a country which upholds their rights in its constitution and fights all over the world against those who threaten such human rights, but paradoxically so far has failed to fulfil them at home.

And again the mob faces, amused and jeering rather than hate-filled, but bearing the same pattern of superiority impressive in its falseness.

What Is Real?

The face of America. Canadians know these pictures do not show the true face; we know Americans well enough to realize that this is only one facet, however deplorable, of that nation. But what is the effect of such pictures published in Russia, in Africa, in Southeast Asia, in India, in China?

How many millions of dollars in foreign aid are required to counteract one such picture? How many thousands of hours of diplomatic oratory are needed to prove that the real heart of America is not represented in this scummy display?

On the other hand, how many such citizens and how many such displays can a country permit and still hold its position as the nation which will lead the peoples of the world to a better, finer, freer life?

The racial problem is one of terrible complexity. What is not perhaps realized — by the filibustering senators and the street mobs — is that it could destroy those who fail to solve it.

Send Us More

It must have come as a rude shock to the people of British Columbia as a whole to hear of Premier Bennett's announcement as stated in the Times of March 9, that he refused to bend on his previous statement that the province would not undertake to accept the eight families of European refugees, proposed by the Federal Government, as he felt the plan to accept only one hundred refugee families was merely a token.

This, coming from the highest elected representative in the province and in the face of such dire need, is indeed a shocking statement and one would earnestly hope that Mr. Bennett is airing his own personal attitude to the problem and not that of the voters who have placed him in such a responsible office.

Most of us will heartily agree with him that the proposed number of refugee families to be accepted is far too small; that we should be ready to rehabilitate 1,000 families instead of 100. But if the Premier of this wealthy province with its grandiose proposed budget of $331,000,000 for 1960 really feels keenly as regards these unfortunate people could he not say to Ottawa in effect, "Yes, we will accept these eight families, but it is not enough—send us more"?

Councillors vs. Culture

We all know that Victoria is likely to continue to expand at an unprecedented rate over the next decade, but whether as a third rate residential area or as one of the fairest cities upon this continent depends largely upon enlightened management at municipal level.

Hence the need for Victorians to scrutinize their elected councillors and judge whether they possess the necessary qualifications and vision to direct the development of Greater Victoria with wisdom and foresight.

It is a commonplace that we can tell the quality of a man by his friends, but it is not so well understood that the standard of his cultural values reflects the depth and clarity of a man's perceptions. Thus it is no accident to find in a man who is prepared to defend the true long-term interests of this city against local pressure groups and factions, a sincere belief in the necessity of certain cultural facilities to the living of any sort of civilized life. Nor is it any more unusual to observe in people who decry such things as "dispensable luxuries" an ignorance of such concepts as ecology and conservation, and to find them attempting to press on us shortsighted and makeshift policies as witness the recent controversies over Thetis Lake and the future development of Saanich.

Cultural values are scorned by many ignorant people, yet those without them will have little success in guiding Victoria wisely in the coming years. A community without a variety of cultural institutions is mediocre indeed. To attract the right type of citizen in the future, to retain the best of its young people when they grow up, a city must have something worthwhile to offer. The attitude of the various councillors in the Saanich debate recently on the value of our local art gallery and symphony orchestra should therefore be of considerable importance to all thinking Victorians next December.

Cluster Lights

When driving from the city to my home I pass over Douglas Street from the Hudson's Bay store to the Roundabout by the so called cluster lights. These are not lights at all as they should be—just like a few candles put up for a show. I have noticed many times one can scarcely see any one crossing the street. One life saved is worth all the cluster lights you have along the street.

I was pleased to see our city council was interested in cutting the big signs down to size. I would say to them don't yield to high pressure, you represent the taxpayer, and the taxpayer is not out to pay for a big billboard. We love aldermen who have a mind of their own.

Complete Iron Curtain

A pamphlet, "Ideology and Co-Existence," sponsored by Dr. Frank Buchman, dropped in my mailbox, is being delivered gratis to all homes in Victoria—also 20,000,000 copies throughout the world. This is brain-washing upon a large scale, costs money and might have been edited by J. Foster Dulles. It advocates no trade with Russia or China, no visits to Moscow, no recognition of China, in fact a complete iron curtain.

I believe moral re-armament is a campaign for creating antigonism toward Russia and China. It is intolerant. If Christianity cannot change human nature, neither can Dr. Buchman. Although I dislike Russian bureaucracy, it has transformed the Russian people. Capitalism would have made them profiteers.

Effects of Reprisals

By JOSEPH ALSOP
From Havana, Cuba

THE people in the United States who have begun to talk so loudly about Cuba, will do well to remember how the Suez crisis started. It started, in effect, because the late John Foster Dulles began a game of tit-for-tat with Gamal Abdel Nasser, without considering where that game might lead. Dulles abruptly cancelled the Aswan Dam scheme, more particularly, he made this gesture with calculated rudeness. And this drove Nasser to nationalize the Suez Canal years ahead of his planned schedule. On the very day of the Dulles gesture, the French ambassador of that time hurried to the State Department to ask what Secretary Dulles would do when Nasser answered the gesture by seizing the Canal. He was laughed at for his pains. But when the ambassador's foresight had been proven by events, it also turned out that Secretary Dulles simply did not know what to do with the catastrophic results.

Alsop

Strong Temptation

This ugly episode of the recent past needs to be borne in mind now, for a quite simple reason. The temptation to begin a game of tit-for-tat with Fidel Castro is already strong, and it is likely to grow stronger.

For the present, the Cuban revolution seems likely not to touch the great majority of the American and other foreign industrial investments in Cuba. But the sugar and cattle lands have been seized already. The sugar mills are likely to be seized soon.

The proposed arrangements for compensation are far from satisfactory, and these material losses are ten times more painful, because of the campaign of vilification of the United States that is being waged by Castro and his subordinates.

No wonder, then, that there is a powerful impulse in Washington to abolish the Cuban sugar quota, or to cease buying Cuban sugar at prices above the world market, or to make some other gesture which will "teach Castro a lesson" and "put Castro in his place."

The effect of Castro's example on other Latin American countries is an added argument—perhaps the most important argument—for reprisals against Cuba.

"We can't take this from Castro," they say, "unless we are ready to take this sort of thing from everyone else."

Not having seen the other Latin American countries, this reporter cannot judge the force of this argument. But even after much too short a stay in Cuba, I feel very sure indeed that the real choice lies between "taking this from Castro," with all its attendant evil results, or calling up the Marines to squash Castro, with all the evil results that can be expected from such an operation.

Only Alternatives

It is 90 per cent sure that these are the only real alternatives, because it is almost 100 per cent sure that the kind of limited reprisals people at home are advocating will only start a game of tit-for-tat.

Cut the quota, and Castro will seize the American investments that are still untouched in Cuba. Increase the pressure, and he will demand the evacuation of the Guantanamo Naval Base. Break diplomatic relations, and he will make Cuba into a Soviet base in our hemisphere—a very different thing from the recent Cuban deal for a Soviet credit, in which, as usual, the Kremlin gave Cuba short weight.

Compared to Castro, Nasser is humble, sluggish and lethargic. If Nasser reacted violently to the beginning of a game of tit-for-tat, Castro can be expected to react ten times more violently. He can in fact be expected to play out the game of tit-for-tat to the limit of his resources, without regard for the consequences to Cuba, or the consequences to himself, or any other practical consideration.

He is what the philosopher Max Weber called a "charismatic" leader. Cool, practical calculation is not a characteristic of this hotly emotional kind of political leadership.

Call Up Marines

Unlike a great many other people including, apparently, President Eisenhower, this reporter is deeply convinced that the Marines ought to be called up in certain circumstances.

They should be called up, for instance, if Cuba is clearly becoming a Soviet base in the Western Hemisphere, or if there is any threat to the Panama Canal. Reprisals against Cuba are not automatically deplorable because reprisals are inherently unthinkable in this lovely, lovable, sanitized modern world.

But it is deplorable—it is close to lunatic—to talk about reprisals without considering the probable end of the game of tit-for-tat.

Those who think Cuba is already a Soviet base, and are ready to call up the Marines, are justified in talking about reprisals. Everyone else had better wait and see. Meanwhile they can also pray for an eventual bearable result in Cuba, which is not inconceivable.

PRECIOUS SPARK

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

Among My Souvenirs

NEARLY 10 years ago, when we moved from the corner of Fort and Broad to this building, I faced the appalling prospect of cleaning up my desk, going through its drawers and getting rid of a lot of lumber.

Stott

For a pack-rat such as I, that was a daunting prospect. It requires deep surgery to separate me from the useless little odds and ends that I accumulate.

Then, bless his soul, one of the men in charge of the move told me I didn't have to clean things out. All I had to do was stick a little adhesive over the drawers so they wouldn't be dislodged in transit. That I did.

Everything came up with me, even the small desk drawer I'd taken from the newsroom in the old building and put in one of my new desk drawers when I switched from the city room to another department. Of course I meant to go through my papers in that old desk drawer when the opportunity arose. I still intend to.

★ ★ ★

If the disorder of a person's office reflects the mental condition of its occupant, then, let's face it, the time is past when a psychiatrist could do anything for me. Several drawerfuls past.

But now, whimpering a little, I've started the grand clean-up. I inherited the old, roll-top, pigeon-holed desk that used to belong to Ben Nicholas. When we moved to new quarters I was persuaded to have it modernized. There is now no rolltop and no pigeon holes. But there are still four drawers down each side and one in the middle.

In addition, I use a typewriter desk which has two small drawers.

All are so crammed that I haven't been able to find anything in them for the last 10 years. But it's still possible to push another paper or two into them, since the top layer of papers scrapes off anyhow and falls, unnoticed into the drawer below or onto the floor.

Whenever I've been entrusted with the safe-keeping of important documents and when the person who reposed trust in me came to make sure I still had them, I've looked him straight in the eye and said, "Sure I've got it. It's in my drawer." So far nobody's called me. Over the years I've grown convinced that nobody will. People who give you papers for safekeeping forget them also and forget to whom they were given.

As I said, I've started the clean-up. It's heart breaking. Last week I emptied one of the small typewriter desk drawers. Since then I've been recuperating.

The wrench was terrific, parting from these mementoes of other years. There were old letters there—some saved in pride from distinguished people. One, beautifully embossed on bond paper, came from a distinguished French-Canadian member of the Federal Cabinet. Reluctantly I let it flutter to the wastepaper basket, wondering how long the distinguished French-Canadian remembered the person whom he had addressed as "Dear Art."

There were old cuts from the columns—cuts showing a relatively slender young man with hair. Ah that youth should perish with the rose!

There were long-hand notes of speeches on which the writer had expected to be challenged long after the speaker had reason to assume the notes would have been destroyed. One contained the most astonishing avowal I've ever heard in politics: "If I'm telling a lie, it's because I think it's the truth."

There was an old pencil with thin crayon strips mingled in the core so it produced simultaneous markings of green, yellow, blue and red. Why was it kept? In the interests of more colorful writing, I guess.

There were notes for a story that somehow was never written—a bright piece that should have made some top magazine but died abornin'. There were brilliant little phrases to be used, as polished gems to decorate a column. Time had tarnished them, wrinkled as they lay on yellowing paper.

There were personal treasures—a mellow old pipe with a broken stem, press badges that were relics of famous occasions, folder handouts from old trips. A cigaret lighter which leaked but didn't light, was welded by a perished elastic band to the botom of the drawer. Paper clips, redolent of nicotine testified to their duty as pipe cleaners.

Old photographs abounded. In a personal urge to tidy up, they've gone now with a parting sorrow that isn't sweet. Still the job will progress, I hope. One down and 10 to go.

THE THINGS WE SEE By ALAN JARVIS

The New National Gallery

Incapsulated in the move of the National Gallery to its new temporary quarters in the Lorne Building on Elgin Street, Ottawa, is an event which I would hate to see lost sight of in the brouhaha. That is, the coming to the surface, at long last, of the print and drawing department.

Jarvis

I say coming to the surface when, perhaps, I should have said, coming into the open, for the department has been there for many years—like an iceberg, nine-tenths below the surface but with something in the open air to give warning of its real bulk. A handful of people throughout the world have long since known of Canada's print and drawing collection, and it has been, in fact, a place of pilgrimage for connoisseurs these many years. The curator of this remarkable collection, which she has with a quiet single-mindedness and a firm single-handedness built up over the past 30 years, is Miss Kathleen Fenwick.

In England she would have been Dame Kathleen long ago, and she would have carried the honor with the same light-hearted bravura with which she carries the affection and admiration of countless specialists and artists from every quarter of the globe. I am privileged to know how many nights and Saturdays she has labored to keep up with routine work because so many of her days were given over to an unsparing sharing of her enthusiasm for the arts of drawing and print-making with artists, young and old, or with collectors who had come to Ottawa just to see the treasures which she has amassed for her country.

The new quarters must be especially gratifying for Miss Fenwick, for she began her curatorship in 1930 in a room which served as a general office, a storage room and general reference room. Over the years she acquired a little more space but never enough to show her collection adequately. Now she has the space she deserves, and galleries which have been put at her disposal are specially equipped, and the walls specially covered with a linen fabric, so that Canada's print and drawing collection can be shown off to real advantage.

In spite of the lack of space, Miss Fenwick's department was always, under the Gallery's three directors, a centre of attraction to her colleagues and friends for the simple reason that Kathleen's unquenchable enthusiasm for art, and above all for quality, is so infectious. An untold number of young Canadians have learned from her what values mean, what standards mean, and have come away from the old Victoria Museum both refreshed and inspired. That Canadian graphic art is at such a high standard today is due in no small measure to her unrelenting efforts to maintain only the most impeccable standards of quality and taste.

I do not hesitate to write in style about Kathleen Fenwick's achievement for two reasons: One is that she has created a collection in the National Gallery of Canada of which every citizen can and should be proud; the other is that her field is, and probably always will be slightly esoteric.

★ ★ ★

Someone has suggested that prints and drawings are to painting as chamber music or string quartets are to the full symphonic orchestra. The appreciation of drawings is a highly sophisticated business, and most people develop an interest and enthusiasm for them after they have learned to enjoy painting, just as most people appreciate a string quartet after they have learned to enjoy symphonic music. However, for the art-gallery addict, the print and drawing department is the mecca to which he is first attracted.

In the case of Canada's National Gallery the connoisseur will find a collection of which we as a nation can and should be proud. Miss Fenwick has gathered upwards of 5,000 works.

3 MLAs Fight Ban on Stamps

Only three members of the legislature—one Liberal and two Social Crediters—voted against banning trading stamps in B.C. when the bill proposing the measure was studied in the House Thursday.

George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria), R. O. Newton (SC, Columbia) and Don Robinson (SC, Lillooet) argued the government action was an infringement on the principle of free enterprise.

Mr. Gregory predicted that within six months of the bill being enacted there will be a court decision that it is either "ultra vires or that it doesn't mean anything at all."

Effect of the bill, when and if it is proclaimed, would be to make it illegal for anyone to provide merchants with stamp plans. It would also appear to outlaw devices such as the bonus card game which is used in this area. The bill would not affect bonus gifts contained in packages of merchandise.

"SPITE WAR"

Mr. Newton protested the stamp controversy was inspired by Safeway Stores Ltd. to counteract a stamp plan used in the east by Loblaw Stores.

"All we're doing is carrying on a spite war between two chain stores."

Mr. Robinson said promotion and competition is the essence of good business. Smaller stores which can't afford large newspaper advertisements could use a stamp plan for advertising.

He said the government should go all the way and investigate all forms of advertising and see "where we are going to draw the line."

PARKING?

Mr. Gregory compared the use of trading stamps with the promotional device of giving a cookie to the child of a customer. If the government is going this far in its controls it should come out for complete state socialism.

"Why pick on trading stamps any more than on a free parking place?" he asked.

Mrs. Buda Brown (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey) said: "This bill will be gratefully received by thousands of housewives."

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) said the bill doesn't go far enough and should rule out all promotional gimmicks, including the gifts inside "rolled oats and soap." He said the government is "against sin—but not all sin."

$2.1 Million From Oil-Gas Lease Sales

Bids totalling $2,130,044 were accepted Thursday by the B.C. department of mines and petroleum resources on 18 of 23 parcels offered by sealed tender.

Highlight of the sale was a bid by Imperial Oil Ltd. of $461,756 for an exploration permit of 82,090 acres located north of 38 degrees north latitude, just inside the B.C.-Alberta border.

Top lease acreage bid was made by Sinclair Canadian Oils Ltd. and Pacific Petroleums Ltd., who bid $227,124 on Parcel 294 of 350 acres—about $649 per acre.

A total of $2,163,508 was received by the department including bids, fees and rentals.

CPR Earnings Down in '59, Revenue Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway Co. had net earnings of $31,288,931 or $1.97 a share last year compared with $32,903,038 or $2.09 in 1958, the annual report has disclosed.

Railway revenue totalled $477,805,874 against $467,410,853. Expenses, including provision of $21,500,000 for incomes taxes in 1959 and $19,200,000 in 1958, were $441,759,581 and $430,919,006 respectively.

N. R. Crump, president, attributed increased revenue largely to higher freight rates and increased expenses chiefly to higher labor costs and income tax.

Income from other than railway operations was $12,677,751 compared with $13,408,712.

Capital expenditures amounted to $109,000,000 which included $67,000,000 on railway plant and equipment, $20,000,000 on aircraft leased to Canadian Pacific Air Lines, $12,000,000 on steamships and the rest on communications, hotels and other properties.

Mr. Crump said that during the year the dieselization program was brought close to completion, plans were advanced for new freight and marshalling yards, centralized traffic control signal systems were installed in new areas, piggyback services were extended and the new service integrating the handling of merchandise traffic was introduced in British Columbia.

SPECTACULAR HARBOR FIRE — Estimated $2,500,000 damage was caused by seven-hour blaze Thursday on Los Angeles waterfront. Several hundred firemen battled flames that destroyed partially-completed Matson Steamship Co. terminal dock. Black, billowing smoke cloud was visible in downtown Los Angeles, 25 miles away. Freighter and some 100 yachts had to be moved away from flames. Spark from welder's torch was believed responsible. (AP Wirephoto.)

HOUSE COMMITTEE REPORTS ON TWO-YEAR YOUTH STUDY

Community Councils Held Key To Curbing Rising Delinquency

Formation of community councils for the prevention of juvenile delinquency was the main recommendation Thursday of the legislative committee which has worked two years on the problem.

The committee, which submitted its report to the legislature, said a special government department with juvenile delinquency as its major interest also would be worth considering.

The committee also called for formation of a joint provincial council to be made up of representatives of all departments "which provide services relative to the problem . . ."

It recommended that schools co-operate in the fullest possible manner with all officials working in the interests of a potential juvenile delinquent.

Each community council should have a special counsellor "in order that constant attention can be given to the development of integrated resources and the rehabilitation of delinquent youths."

The board recommended the community councils concentrate on public education and raising money to provide youth services. The provincial government should make every effort to get additional trained personnel to broaden family services.

The report says the government should relieve the apparent shortage of professionally trained social workers.

The committee was set up by the legislature in 1958 under chairmanship of Health Minister Eric Martin. It has been meeting regularly since then.

A pilot plan for community action should be established as soon as possible, the report stated. Membership should include a cross section of the community and should include dedicated, active citizens.

The report said there is no simple answer to the problem of juvenile delinquency, but prevention is less costly than correction. Juvenile courts were recommended for all possible areas.

The report gave special attention to the facility for correctional training of boys at Brannen Lake. It noted a need to separate different types of youthful offenders and proposed that a more effective rehabilitation program in communities would relieve overcrowding at the school.

"Juvenile delinquency is increasing" at a more rapid rate in B.C. than it is in Canada generally, the report said.

It suggested the churches of B.C. should make their youth programs more effective. Councils should consider flexible, up-to-date curfew laws. Sports programs, with the emphasis on playing rather than necessarily winning, were favored.

There should be local agitation to remove questionable literature from newsstands. It stated that parents must accept the major responsibility for delinquency of children and criticized homes where children lack supervision while both parents work.

The mother's presence at home is more valuable than the extra money she can earn it was concluded.

Finally it pointed out that press and radio and TV accounts of youth troubles create the impression that youngsters generally are "going wrong." Actually, only 2 per cent of youngsters experience this difficulty, the report said.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black said there would be a follow-up by his department of the report.

"I am sure that a year from now you will see some improvement. It might prove a partial solution regarding juveniles."

PT. ANGELES TO VICTORIA FERRY BUSIER

Mv. Coho freight and passenger traffic is increasing between Victoria and Port Angeles, a spokesman for Black Ball Transport Inc. said Thursday.

There were 532 cars and 1,978 passengers out of Victoria in February, the second month of operation. Traffic from Port Angeles was a little below these figures.

Freight manager Patrick Frumento said business was better than had been expected, but that the freight service would have to carry expenses for the year-round service.

The vessel now makes the Victoria-Port Angeles trip once daily, and will begin the summer schedule of four round trips daily about June 15.

Diesel Adds Final Insult To 'Puffer'

SWINDON, Eng. (UPI) — There was scarcely a dry eye today when they named a sparkling new railway engine the "Evening Star."

Then — a final insult — a diesel engine hauled the "Evening Star" out of the shops, and the plaque on her side was unveiled :

"Number 92220," it said. "Built at Swindon, March 1960. The last steam locomotive built for British Railways."

Doctors to Get More for Needy

The provincial government will increase the flat rate paid doctors for medical care of social assistance recipients, Welfare Minister W. D. Black said in the House, Thursday.

He explained that the government pays $22.50 per person to a fund set up by the British Columbia Division, Canadian Medical Association. Doctors draw on the fund for payment of their services.

They have complained in the past that the remuneration was less than 50 per cent of their normal charges. Mr. Black said the increase will mean they will obtain 50 per cent or better, from the welfare cases treated.

OVERALL BOOST

He said the increase this year in social assistance spending from $15,609,000 to $21,044,000 includes funds which will permit an increase in the per person grant of $1.50 to a total of $24.

Mr. Black made the announcement during consideration of his welfare department estimates. Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) had pointed out the CMA had asked a revision of the rates in 1958. When no relief was obtained following the last session of the House, the CMA wrote all members.

The letter said trying to deal with the government was "shadow-boxing". The association would "keep the door open" to further negotiation but in the meantime, would develop its own means of informing the public of the inadequacies of the government.

Read What Professors Say of Vivisection . . .

PROFESSOR BOREL, M.D.,
Pasteur Institute, Paris, France

"For fifteen years I have vivisected birds, horses, dogs, rabbits and monkeys, and I can affirm in all cases that it is nearly completely impossible to employ anaesthetics upon them so as to render them insensible. The suffering of the animals is so great that after the experiments they are altogether stupified. Anyone who is accustomed to pathological experiments knows that animals suffer greatly when vivisected until death comes to deliver them."

DR. HENRY J. BIGELOW, Professor Emeritus of Surgery at Harvard in "Surgical Anaesthesia."

"A torture of helpless animals—more terrible by reason of its refinement and the effort to prolong it than burning at the stake, which is brief—is now being carried on in all civilized nations, not in the name of religion, but of science . . . The law should interfere. There can be no doubt that in this relation there exists a case of cruelty to animals far transcending in its refinement and in its horror, anything that has been known in the history of nations.

"There will come a time when the world will look back to modern vivisection in the name of science, as they do now to burning at the stake in the name of religions."

DR. WILLIAM JAMES, late Professor of Philosophy and Psychology, Harvard University

"The rights of the helpless, even though they be brutes, must be protected by those who have superior power. The individual vivisector must be held responsible to some authority which he fears. The medical and scientific men, who time and time again have raised their voices in opposition, to all legal projects of regulation, know as well as anyone else does, the unspeakable possibilities of callousness, wantoness and meanness of human nature."

SECOND 'HAT'

Jack Best Bet

Robert John (Jackie) McLeod, 29-year-old Calgary left-winger, is today's best bet to take player-of-the-week honors in this the final week of the 1959-60 Western Hockey League campaign.

The former National Leaguer with New York came up with his second three-goal performance of the week Thursday in pacing the fifth-place Stampeders to a 5-3 victory over Winnipeg in Warriors' final home game.

Tuesday, he led Stampeders to a 6-4 decision over Edmonton with three goals.

McLeod has also helped on two other goals in the three games Calgary has played this week to fatten his season record to 28 goals and 27 assists.

Joining McLeod in starring roles at Winnipeg Thursday were centre Norm Johnson, who scored the other two Calgary goals, and netminder Lucien Dechene, who made 44 stops, including 20 in the final period when Warriors applied the pressure.

Al Nicholson, Steve Witiuk and Dick Lamoureux scored singles for Winnipeg in the game that meant little to either club as both have finished out of the playoffs.

In tonight's action, first-place Vancouver meets last-place Spokane Comets at Vancouver. And Edmonton Flyers tangle with Winnipeg at Edmonton, with Flyers striving to gain sole possession of third place.

Vancouver will visit Spokane, Seattle will play Victoria Cougars in Memorial Arena, and Winnipeg will be at Calgary in Saturday's games.

Ladies Give Curling Rink Nice Workout

The ice at Victoria Curling Club hardly had a chance to cool off Thursday before it was covered with lady curlers again. Just a few hours after the western Canada curl-offs were completed, first draws in the annual city ladies bonspiel opened.

Four draws were played, including one at midnight. With 51 rinks entered, a record, the ladies will be hard at it until finals Sunday. They will take a few hours off for their annual banquet Saturday night.

Results for early draws follow:

Roberto's Slanguage Plenty Durn Good, Si?

NEW YORK (AP)—Italy's Mickey Mantle—a grinning, crew-cut youngster named Roberto Gandini—stopped over in New York this week en route to a tryout with the Pittsburgh Pirates, and immediately passed his first baseball test.

"Kill the umpire!" he said. "Slide, durnit, slide! Hit the dirt!"

"I speak English not too much but I know all of—what you call it?—baseball slang," he added proudly. "Pretty good, si?"

"Si," agreed Gerry Coleman, Jim Hearn and Carl Erskine, three former big leaguers who were on hand to give the Italian import a welcome and a bit of sage advice.

Gardini is 21, a ruggedly built athlete of five feet nine and 175 pounds, only son of a Milan artist. He got interested in baseball at 14 from watching American GI's and has lived and breathed the sport ever since.

Centrefielder on the Milan team of the semi-pro Italian League, he won the batting championship in 1958 with a .373 mark, slumping last year to .312. But he hit seven home runs in his team's 30 games and became the most popular player in a sport which draws little more than yawns from the soccer-minded Italians.

Difficult Lessons For Apprentices?

Luckless Naval Technical Apprentices of the Victoria Rugby Union's Second Division have only won one game this season and it looks like they may have trouble winning a second.

A new entry on the rugby scene this year, the Apprentices have been steadily improving but still lack the experience of players on established teams.

This was illustrated Wednesday when they were taken apart 40-3 by HMCS Venture in a replay of a previously-postponed game.

Ron Reimer scored five tries and Tom Byrne kicked seven converts to lead the cadet scoring. Ken Scotten had two tries and Dick Rumble one.

The league continues play Saturday when Oak Bay Reds meet James Bay Barbarians at Macdonald Park, and Victoria University "A" plays Oak Bay Whites at Carnarvon. Both are First Division contests at 2.30 p.m.

In the Second Division Navy meets Navy Technical Apprentices at 10.30 a.m., at Windsor, and Royal Roads plays Venture in a cadet clash at 2.30 p.m., at Royal Roads.

In the Junior Division, Oak Bay Wanderers take on Sea Cadets, at Royal Roads, and Air Cadets go against Canadian Scottish Cadets, at Windsor Park. Both games are at 2.30 p.m.

Prairie Clubs On Exhibition In California

WINNIPEG (CP)—Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League confirmed Thursday they are planning to stage an exhibition series April 2 and 3 at Squaw Valley, Calif., site of the recent winter Olympic Games.

The venture is being promoted by a United States businessman, and both Calgary manager Gus Kyle and Warrior general manager Jack Perrin have agreed to tentative terms.

Perrin said he also hopes to play games in Los Angeles while the teams are in California. Both Calgary and Winnipeg have finished out of the WHL playoffs. The season finishes this weekend.

NEW YORK—Bobby Bartels, 145, New York, stopped Irish Pat Mullane, 143, Waterbury, Conn., 2.

Saskatoon Girls In Class Apart

Alberta Rink Defeated 14-11 On Final Round

A secretary and three girls who transferred their allegiance from softball diamonds to ice sheets rule today as best in western Canada women's curling circles.

The Joyce McKee rink from Saskatoon, turning back a final threat from Alberta in a show-down battle Thursday, captured the Eaton's Trophy and the Western title by posting a record of five wins and one loss in a double round-robin competition at the Victoria Curling Club.

The clincher was a tense, 14-11 conquest of Mrs. Dorothy Thompson's Edmonton rink on the final draw.

Mrs. Thompson, 1954 winner, finished second with a 4-2 record while Manitoba, Isabelle Ketchen's defending champions from Flin Flon, was third with a 2-3 mark.

B.C. Won Only One

B.C., represented by Irene Frazer's Vancouver rink, won its only game in six starts on the final draw by defeating Manitoba 14-8.

Miss McKee, darling of the male curling experts by merit of her cool, calculating skipping, now leads her rink to Oshawa, Ont., and a special east-west playoff for the Canadian championship March 25.

Rounding out the Saskatoon rink are vice-skip Sylvia Fedoruk, second Donna Belding and lead Muriel Coben. Miss McKee, Miss Fedoruk and Miss Coben all are former outstanding softball stars on the Prairies.

The Saskatoon girls appeared in a class by themselves. Victoria club icemaker Tony Gutoski, who represented B.C. in the 1958 Canadian men's championships, and Steve Hayhurst, former Northern Saskatchewan titleholder, both shared the opinion that the McKee rink "had no business losing the one game they did."

Mrs. Thompson had Mrs. Watson throwing third rocks, Eleanor Myers at second and Vivian Kortgaard leading.

The four-day playoffs here mark the end of the Western championships. Next year a national bonspiel will bring together the champions of 10 provinces and will be patterned along lines of the men's dominion championship.

Skips Stood Out

The Alberta-Saskatchewan meeting in the last draw provided a fitting climax. Both skips were outstanding. Mrs. Thompson, a sharp strategist who quickly built up big ends with a slow, soft-weight style, was credited with curling the best of all eight players taking part in the showdown game.

She was given 38 out of a possible 48 points in individual shooting. Miss McKee had 36, one less than Miss Kortgaard, another former softball player who once roomed with the Saskatoon skip and also caught for Miss Coben.

Last rock proved a decisive factor in the final game. The skips alternated last-rock advantage — and scoring — throughout the game. The Saskatoon girls, however, had their edge when they counted three times on the second and fourth ends and a four-ender on the sixth.

But if there was any coincidence connected with Saskatchewan's title-clinching victory and B.C.'s first triumph, it must have been St. Patrick's Day. Both Saskatchewan and B.C. wear green as their colors.

TRADE FIRE PUT OUT BY 'NO NOMAD' ASHBEE

Nanaimo's Don Ashbee quelled all rumors Thursday of his going to New Westminster's Intercity Lacrosse League club this year.

Harry McKnight, general manager of New Westminster said he would trade Jack Bionda to Nanaimo if the Vancouver Island club, in turn, would allow Ashbee to come to New Westminster.

But Ashbee said: "I've decided to stay in Nanaimo. My family and my job are here so I felt it best to stay."

B.C. SWIM MEET

'Y' Squad Rates In Team Scramble

Vancouver challengers loom as favorites in the majority of events, but don't count out Victoria YMCA when the splashers take over the Crystal Garden pool Saturday for the annual B.C. championships.

★ ★ ★

TRICIA HOLLAND
. . . YMCA ace

Coach Bob Johnstone's YMCA squad rates as a distinct threat for team honors.

Long-time coach of city swimmers, Archie McKinnon was enthusiastic about the youthful splashers and said they would make "a good showing."

The spring section of the B.C. Open indoor swimming and diving championships brings together the best in the province, including several Canadian junior and senior record holders.

Included in the local squad will be Bob Wheaton, Bruce Warburton and the Holland sisters, Tricia and Sally, who will be up against mainland swimmers Mary Stewart, Marg Iwasaki, Alan Brew and Ed Cazalet.

Sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, the meet will decide titles in five age groups and is due to start at 10 a.m.

Ike Closed Door After Early Goal

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Victoria added the Pacific Coast peewee hockey championship to its bantam title Thursday, defeating New Westminster 2-1 in the second game of a two-game total-point series.

First game of the peewee series, played here Wednesday, ended in a 3-3 tie. Victoria took the series 5-4.

The Islanders scored twice in the opening period Thursday then banked on the sharp goaltending of Ike McKay to hold New Westminster.

McKay stopped 26 shots, 12 in the third period.

Baylor Sparks Upset Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Led by Elgin Baylor's 40 points, Minneapolis Lakers stunned overconfident St. Louis with a last-quarter drive for a 120-113 victory Thursday night, squaring the western title playoff series 1-1.

Bidding to upset the regular season National Basketball Association western champs for the second straight year, the determined Lakers were never headed once they grabbed their first lead of the game with seven minutes remaining.

The Hawks, freezing under the pressure and appearing disorganized at times, were never closer than three points in the final minutes.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Fitzsimmons and Henry Armstrong were the only boxers ever to hold three titles simultaneously, but the ring has had a total of 11 multiple champions—fighters who have held two titles at the same time.

Entry List Hits 50 For Legion Road Race

Vancouver Island runners from as far north as Comox will be competing in the annual Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, road race Wednesday.

A field of over 50 is expected to set off from Victoria High School track at 3.45 p.m. in the six-mile event.

Entrants include high school teams from Vic High, Oak Bay, University School, Belmont and North Saanich.

Runners from all three services are also entered.

Among the favored entrants are John Valiant of Vic High and Ron Gunter of Oak Bay.

Also highly rated is RCAF Flight Sergeant Fred Sweeney, a marathon runner from Ontario who will try his hand at the shorter course.

The event is an open one and anyone wanting to enter should contact Gordon Hartley at Victoria High School.

SOCCER WRITERS SCREAM

RECORD FEE

Transfer an Outrage?

LONDON (CP)—Denis Law, the most valuable piece of property in British soccer, plays his first match for his new club, Manchester City, Saturday when City takes on Leeds United on United's home ground at Elland Road.

Law, a sprightly 20-year-old with fair tousled hair and a highly individual style in an era of regimented soccer, was purchased this week for a record transfer fee, estimated at £53,000, from Huddersfield Town.

The whopping figure caused an outcry in the British press, with commentators drawing attention to the fact that while Huddersfield receives £53,000 all Law will get is a £20 signing-on fee. With Manchester, his weekly salary will be restricted to the ceiling of £20, plus £4 for a win and £2 for a draw.

The Manchester-Leeds match will also be watched closely because both teams are in danger of relegation from the First Division.

In other top fixtures Saturday, Wolverhampton Wanderers travel to Leicester and First Division leaders Tottenham Hotspur are at home against Fulham. Wolves, in second place, are bidding for their third league championship in three years while Leicester, eliminated by the Wolves in last Saturday's Football Association Cup match, will be out for revenge.

Luton Town, away to Newcastle, and Birmingham, at home to Bolton Wanderers, appear to have small hope of improving their position. Both are in the bottom half of the standings.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

It was good news for the outdoor fraternity and the province when Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle Westwood announced that licensing of salt water sports fishermen is not expected in the foreseeable future.

The logical decision was reached during Wednesday's meeting of federal fisheries officials and provincial representatives who huddled to discuss the controversial proposal. As expected, the licencing plan was being considered mainly as a method for more accurately estimating the annual B.C. salmon catch by sports fishermen, and it is probable that the federal men will continue to search for a suitable system of tabulating catches.

It was also stated that the discussions may lead to investigation of complaints by commercial fishermen that anglers are reducing the commercial salmon catches, which leads to the thought that perhaps it is more than time to investigate the fish-for-pay boys.

If the commercial men have decided to attack the people who fish for fun, perhaps the sportsmen should launch a counter-attack and suggest commercial catches be reduced in order to leave more fish for recreational use.

Over the years, the men making a living off salmon have done far more than the angling public to deplete the fish supply.

Conservation has been correctly described as "wise use of natural resources," and no wiser use can be made of our salmon than to ensure that they are available for sports fishing.

It is no secret that a salmon taken by a man fishing for recreation is now more valuable to the province than the same fish snagged in a net. Times have changed and when the time comes to impose additional restrictions on salt water fishing they should not be aimed at the angling public. The target is obvious.

* * *

The next few weeks are often among the best in the year for steelhead anglers and the March run of steelies in the Cowichan River suggests that there is some good action ahead.

Steelies have been hitting regularly in the lower reaches this week and this could be one of the better weekends in many parts of the Cowichan.

Among the many anglers who have hauled in two-fish limits this week are Charlie Piester, Bill Ingham, Don Reynolds and Clark Weatherhead.

* * *

John Olson, who pulled a 19-pound steelhead out of the Koksilah last year, hit another big one at the Salmon River last weekend. Fishing with Joe Garner, John snagged a fresh-run, 20-pound two-ounce ironhead.

* * *

Salmon fishing appears to be hit-and-miss proposition in most waters and the most consistent salt water angling may be at Saanich Inlet, where bluebacks are providing some good sport. The blues seem to be moving and are sometimes difficult to locate, but a good number of limit catches have been boated this week, many on bucktail flies. Some of the best catches have come from waters near the Goldstream end.

It's Rock's Turn To Do Knocking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Don't knock The Rock."

That was the battle cry of Colavito fans during Rocky's off-season salary wrangling with general manager Frank Lane of Cleveland Indians. Lane apparently got the message because Rocky received a salary increase of 25 per cent to $35,000.

Now The Rock is doing the knocking—and with the same big bat that hit 42 home runs last year to share the American League crown with Harmon Killebrew of Washington Senators.

Colavito homered for two runs in the sixth inning as the Indians came from behind for a 4-3 exhibition victory over Chicago Cubs at Tucson, Ariz., Thursday. It was his fourth home run in five games.

LEMON RUSTY

While the Indians, who finished second to the pennant-winning White Sox last season, were cheered by Rocky's continued power, there was disappointment in the pitching of right-hander Bob Lemon.

Lemon, who seven times won 20 games or more for the Indians, is 39 and officially listed as a coach, but he has expressed hope he might regain his old form. Thursday wasn't his day.

The Cubs tagged Lemon for all their runs in the first three innings. Lou Johnson doubled twice and Ernie Banks tripled and singled.

Thursday's scores from the Grapefruit League:

Kansas City 1, Baltimore 2.
Chicago (N) 3, Cleveland 4.
San Francisco 4, Boston 3.
Washington 0, Chicago (A) 1.

LEAFS BREAK LOOSE

This Wasn't Plante's Day

By Canadian Press

As individuals, Toronto Maple Leafs do not rank with the National Hockey League's most feared marksmen.

None of them is among the top 12 scorers this season and none has ever come close to winning the scoring championship.

Yet Jacques Plante, who returned to Montreal Canadiens' net Thursday night after a one-game rest, must have imagined he was facing a team of Gordie Howes and Jean Beliveaus.

The second-place Leafs mounted a stunning four-goal offensive in the third period to wipe out Plante's lead in the Vezina Trophy race and skate off the Montreal Forum ice with a 6-2 win over the league champions.

Their victory, in the only game scheduled, was their first of the season in Montreal and the Canadiens' first setback at home since Dec. 12, when they lost 3-2 to Detroit Red Wings.

ROOKIE SURPRISES

Rookie Gary Edmundson was surprisingly strong for the Leafs, scoring two goals early in the third period. They were only his third and fourth of the season.

Both Plante and Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks now have allowed 174 goals in 68 games.

The Vezina Trophy, won by Plante the last four seasons, goes to the goaltender who has played the most games for the team scored upon the least. Hall has played in every Chicago game, Plante in all but one of Montreal's.

The Canadiens and Leafs fired the same number of shots at each other, 38, but the Leafs checked tenaciously from start to finish.

Dick Duff, Carl Brewer, Frank Mahovlich and Red Kelly counted Toronto's other goals while Bernie Geoffrion, with No. 30, and Marcel Bonin scored for Canadiens.

SIU MEMBERS ACCUSED OF HELPING RIVALS

7 Men Go on Union Trial Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the Independent Seafarers' International Union said seven SIU members will appear before a union trial committee here today to answer charges they actively supported a rival union in a waterfront jurisdictional dispute.

Phil Borstad, chairman of the SIU committee on the ferry Kahloke, said those charged are employed on Black Ball Ferries Limited vessels.

He said they were accused of giving support to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) in the current struggle for jurisdiction over west coast seamen.

Those to appear before the five-man trial committee include Jimmy Sutton, Al Fritz and stewardess Pat Horton, all of the Kahloke, and four crew members of the ferry Chinook.

Also scheduled for today is a B.C. Supreme Court hearing of CBRT's claim it should have been named bargaining agent for about 145 Black Ball employees during a recent application before the Labor Relations Board.

ISLAND DIGEST

AUTHORITY IN BIBLE—PRICE

'Use the Whip On Bad Boys'

Judicious use of the whip may be needed in dealing with boys who show "an absolute contempt for the laws of society," Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) told the legislature Thursday night.

He said whipping might be necessary to persuade those boys they cannot openly defy law and order.

Mr. Price was discussing an estimate of $446,846 for operation of the Brannen Lake School for Boys, near Nanaimo, during the coming fiscal year.

He declared too many age groups and different types of offenders are thrown together at Brannen Lake. He suggested there should be two schools:

1. For the type of boy who can obviously be rehabilitated.

2. For the boy who has only contempt for the laws of society.

When challenged by CCF members regarding use of the whip, Mr. Price replied:

"The Good Book gives authority for this when it says spare the rod and spoil the child."

He said Brannen Lake had to deal very largely with "a young individual who, by virtue of ambition or exuberance, may have gone beyond the laws of society."

'This School Failing in Its Job'

"Somewhere down the line," he continued, "this school is failing in its job. These boys return again and again into the steel cage."

"Do you think there should be steel cages?" asked Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

"Don't be silly," replied Mr. Price, explaining that he did not mean this literally.

He believed the present serious trend towards delinquency could be cut in half in about five years, but not under the present administration.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black admitted the problem is serious but said there could be no easy solution.

He said boys of all types were sent to Brannen Lake by the magistrates and the government had no control over this practice.

"But we shall do all we can to tackle this problem," he declared.

Mr. Turner said the population at Brannen Lake School is "much too high." He considered the industrial school at New Haven to be a prime example of what could be done with a small resident population.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the government had high hopes of arresting juvenile delinquency by extended use of the probation system for first offenders.

IF SERVICE DOESN'T IMPROVE

B.C. Takeover Asked on E & N

If the E & N Railway cannot provide full freight and express services, then it should be taken over by the B.C. government, Shawnigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute declared this week.

In a brief presented to U. B. McCallum, district inspector for the Board of Transport Commissioners, farmers complain express and freight services in Cobble Hill have deteriorated to the point where some do not even exist.

If maintenance of these services cannot be achieved, the brief states, "it is suggested that the government of B.C. assume the operation of this railway, and the subsidies, past and present, be used to establish and maintain full and efficient public service on this railway, and so fulfill the obligations of the E and N Railway contract."

Present and past grants and subsidies not used for the railway should be returned to the B.C. government to be earmarked and used for erection of hospitals and schools with the E and N land belt.

"Failing this, it is requested that all land grants and subsidies now enjoyed by the E and N Railway be withdrawn, and all encumbrances in its favor registered against the property titles of local land owners be deleted," the brief concludes.

Fund Started For Family Of Sea Victim

A fund has been started in the Colwood and Langford districts to help Mrs. Howard J. Smith, whose husband was drowned Saturday evening near Crofton when the canoe in which he was riding upset in Stuart Channel.

In charge of the fund is Rev. Donald A. Hatfield of St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, and St. Matthew's Church, Langford. Donations may be sent to him at the Rectory, 520 Mount View Avenue, Colwood.

Mrs. Smith and her four children live at 837 Orono Avenue, Langford. She is expecting another child.

Mr. Hatfield said it is hoped sufficient money can be raised to pay off a mortgage on the home.

Water Pipe Extension Approved

(From Duncan Bureau)

NORTH COWICHAN—Municipal council has approved a City of Duncan plan to build a $25,300 mile-long water pipe extension to the city water system to serve residents in the Lakes and Wicks Roads area of the municipality.

Duncan city council will give final consideration to a necessary amendment to the waterworks bylaw at its next meeting.

The bylaw provides for a tapping fee of $60. In addition the property owner will pay $1.50 per foot, or a half-share of the original pipeline construction cost. The time limit provided for is 10 years.

The amendment must be approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and the Public Utilities Commission.

The city plans to build one mile of pipe at cost of $25,300, of which $4,700 will be returned under the federal winter works program provisions.

Residents in the vicinity of Lakes and Wicks Roads have raised $16,000 towards the cost of the pipeline. The residents are underwriting the cost and dealing with the city.

'OTTAWA FAILING ISLAND MINERS'

Provincial aid to the Tsable River coal mine at Cumberland was asked in the legislature Thursday by Dan Campbell (SC, Comox).

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan promised his department would give the operation every consideration.

Mr. Campbell also said the federal government is failing the miners.

He said the federal government had refused to help with a loan to sustain the coal mining industry there.

"They refuse to extend the same consideration to the mining industry in western Canada as they extend to mines operating in the east.

SOLUTION MONDAY

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Stephen Cockrill, aged 12 of Scottsdale, Ariz., for his question:

What Makes a Cat's Eyes Shine In the Dark?

The happiest cat is one with both a home and freedom to roam. As a rule, she is a loving pet and during the day she will romp and play, especially with young children. From time to time she takes a nap, which is in preparation for her night time prowl. When the house is fast asleep, Miss Puss slips outdoors, all set for a round of adventure.

She may get into a fight and wake the neighbors with banshee howls. But the main thing on her mind is dessert. She is, of course, a meat eater and she enjoys the fish, liver and hamburger you give her as a main course. But her idea of dessert is a fat juicy mouse. And pretty puss is well equipped to catch herself one, two or three of these before the night is done.

She moves on padded paws, soft as a feather. She has endless patience to wait and watch. She has a fine sense of smell and she can see by the dimmest of starlight. For this, she has special eyes which shine in the dim light. No, Puss cannot see and nor do her eyes shine in total darkness. Her wonderful eyes are able to use a double scoop of dim light and, in the process, some of the light is reflected back as eyeshine.

Your eye, of course, has a round pupil. In a bright light, your pupil contracts to shut out some of the glare. Puss has an almond-shaped slit pupil and in a bright light the slit becomes narrower for the same reason. In the dim light, your pupil opens wide to catch as much light as possible. Puss's pupil becomes almost as big as her entire eye for the same reason. But she has still another trick to catch the light.

Light passes through your round pupil to the retina in the back of your eye. This is a dark screen which absorbs the light and the image of the scenery it carries.

Glassy Cells Reflect Light

Complex nerves then flash these impressions to the brain. Miss Puss has a layer of glassy cells behind her retina and it acts like a reflector button. At night, the dim light passes through her wide-open pupil to the retina, then through to the glassy layer behind the retina. But here it reflects or bounces back.

In this way, the cat's eye gets a double exposure of the scenery. Dark areas appear darker and light areas appear lighter. This is why Miss Puss can see better in a dim light than we can. She can certainly see better than a mouse, whose vision is not too good at the best of times. But, for Miss Puss, there is a catch to this double-exposure trick.

Light passes through the wide-open slit pupil to the retina where impressions are then assembled through to the glassy layer behind the retina. From here it bounces back through the retina again, giving a double set of light and dark impressions. Some of this light, however, goes straight forward and comes out through the pupil. This is the eyeshine which glows in the semi-darkness. This eyeshine does not help the cat see in a dim light. Instead, it may hinder her by flashing an eerie warning to her victims.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Dwight Hill, age 11, of Ottawa, Ont., for his question:

Is a snail an amphibian?

Amphibian is coined from two words meaning land and water. We can use this word loosely to describe such insects as the mosquito which spend their egg and larva stages in the water and their adult lives on land. But strictly speaking, a true amphibian belongs to the animal class Amphibia. This class includes the frogs, toads, the newts and the salamanders.

Snails are not amphibians.

FATHERS FIND MEAT-STEALER NO SPRITE

OTTAWA (CP)—'Twas no leprechaun the Dominican fathers found asleep in their laundry room on this St. Patrick's Day with five pounds of meat under his arm. It was wily Daniel O'Connell who had just broken into the Roman Catholic monastery for the 43rd time in 20 years.

O'Connell, 46, was sentenced to six months in jail after he pleaded guilty to vagrancy.

Though he has baffled the fathers by finding a variety of ways to get into their monastery he has never been able to escape from the county jail.

MODERN ART LUNACY

Machine Created To Kill Itself

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP)—A machine whose whole purpose in life was to destroy itself did just that Thursday night in one of the most amusing lunatic shows ever to pass under the name of modern art.

The creature composed of wheels, bathtub, piano, radio, addressograph machine, child's cart and assorted other objects sat 27 feet high in the garden of the Museum of Modern Art.

An audience of about 500 saw "Homage to New York" rattle, flap, shake, hammer and burn itself to pieces.

It was so successful at self destruction that the fire department had to put out flames eating up the piano. Loyal to art, the audience booed this interference, but the staunch firemen went right ahead.

The object was by the Swiss-born scultpor, Jean Tinguely, a slight, black-haired fellow who bowed contentedly in response to the warm applause that greeted his novel venture.

It was a gadget to end all gadgets.

Fifteen motors controlled by eight timers ran some 80 bicycle wheels of all sizes. Pictures painted themselves frenziedly on paper, a saw cut at the piano's underpinning. A great golden balloon inflated at the peak of the machine. Smoke pots belched forth clouds that choked the onlookers.

It ran half an hour, then one section tumbled to the ground. Then a second, waving a red and white pennant. A third, with a klaxon that didn't work, scooted out from under and dashed for nowhere. A fourth part collapsed.

It did not quite live up to the billing. Tinguely and some helpers put most of it together in the afternoon. But it did paint its own pictures, and it spoke its own pieces, from a record, explaining what it was about. The balloon was scheduled to burst but failed to and so on.

Tinguely in his less experimental moments has done some sculpture highly praised by people who should know, and his work is widely circulated in Europe.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

KIM NOVAK
. . . wooed by $$$$$

NEW Y[illegible] — The news from Weirdsville, U.S.A., is weirder than usual this weird day . . . We heard of Jerry Lewis, for example, objecting so much to a blast from a TV critic here that he sent him a $2,500 gift certificate to Menninger's Clinic.

James Thurber was telling me betwixt talk about "A Thurber Carnival" being the season's surprise smash hit, how he felt about Jack Parr. "I'll go back on Jack Parr's show again if he asks me—because I like people who speak out. I speak out myself—and it's popular."

* * *

Everybody out there who's reported engaged to Kim Novak — and there are lots of you — attention! While in Rio for "Carnival," she was ardently wooed day and night by Brazilionaire Jorge Guinle . . . He's so rich that many people in Rio think Guinle is the word for money. Back to Jerry Lewis — Jerry's coming to NY and put on spectacular shows all over the Silk Stocking District if his chum Joey Adams decides to run for Congress there. Friends of Joey, who know he wants to be Mayor, and maybe even something bigger, are calling him "Joey Quincy Adams."

* * *

Zsa Zsa Gabor was at 21 snuggling up to wine-buyer Sidney Barton in her double-breasted suit and told me she's appearing in "Ninotchka" on ABC TV. "Who's playing Ninotchka?" I asked. "Maria Schell—damn it!" she said. (They say Maria's charm has lassoed Glenn Ford.)

* * *

Carol Heiss will get her engagement ring from fellow skater Hayes Jenkins on ice—maybe while they're skating—at the Olympics Ball at the Waldorf March 21. (This is a secret, so don't mention it around) . . . David O. Selznick has been escorting Tina Onassis about. His wife, Jennifer Jones, is ill . . . Hey, animal lovers, Fannie Hurst's dogs won't eat unless they're on wheels. And subways won't do. She feeds them in taxis or limousines. (Dinner a la cart?)

* * *

Jules Stein, head of Music Corp. of America, told famous voice coach Al Siegel he wanted him to listen to a certain girl sing. The girl said she was Susan Stanton, 24. Siegel tutored her about two weeks, and reported to Stein: "This girl's O.K. I think she can make it." Stein replied, "I'm glad you said that—because she's my daughter." And so Susan Stein—that's her real name—who's father practically owns show business, is getting together a supper club act and we may be hearing about her at the Plaza or Waldorf. (Wonder if she's going to pay her dad 10 per cent?)

Fairclough Spins Big Pitch For Immigrants From U.S.

CHICAGO (CP)—Immigration Minister Fairclough made a direct "sales pitch" Thursday night to Americans to migrate to Canada.

She told the Chicago Women's Athletic Club that Canada wants United States immigrants to help in the development of a "changing, pulsating, booming raw giant."

"I make no apology for this approach," she said.

"Canada needs immigrants. It welcomes them. They stimulate our economy both as producers and as consumers.

"And so we want more people from the United States—people who can readily integrate into our society, people who have pioneered once and are willing to pioneer again, people who want to invest their future in a "growth stock" of Canadian origin."

She suggested that Americans living close to the Canadian border could visit Canada to search our opportunities in business and agriculture.

Canada was booming and a vast once-empty north was being explored, surveyed, mined and drilled for the riches below its surface.

"Indeed, our country is so big that parts of it haven't yet been found."

SEA RESCUE

Soviet Sends Thanks

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Politics were crowded off the front page of Pravda Thursday as the Soviet Communist party hailed the feat of four Russian soldiers who survived 49 days adrift at sea and thanked the United States for rescuing them.

In an unusual front page display, the official party newspaper published photographs of the four soldiers and the texts of thank-you letters sent by Premier Khrushchev to President Eisenhower, and San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher.

Khrushchev sent the message of thanks to Eisenhower Wednesday, expressing "a feeling of deep gratitude" to the United States for saving the soldiers, who had drifted for seven weeks with scarcely any food or water.

"The Soviet people look upon the noble conduct of our sailors, the solicitous treatment of the Soviet young men by the American authorities as an expression of friendly relations which are developing between the two countries."

The Russian premier also sent a message to Christopher who visited Moscow last week, stating the Soviet people "will not forget the humane action of the American seamen and the warmth shown to the rescued by the population of San Francisco."

CHEAT JAILED

VANCOUVER—A man who defrauded an immigrant of $100 with the promise of a non-existent job was jailed Wednesday for four months. Luigi Ballan, 25, was convicted of defrauding Zlatko Domitar by promising to get him a job aboard a deep-sea ship.

Carrier Nudges Close In Dallas Road 'Review'

By MONTE ROBERTS

Despite a heavy haze hanging over Juan de Fuca Strait, hundreds of Victorians got a good look at the 63,500-ton aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea as she passed the Dallas Road waterfront this morning bound for Vancouver.

Her commanding officer, Capt. J. S. Gray Jr., authorized a course which brought the 978-foot ship one-half mile from the Ogden Point breakwater, then past Holland Point, Beacon Hill Park and Clover Point shortly after 9 a.m.

Dallas Road was lined with cars and people from the Pilotage station to Ross Bay.

The U.S. ship was wearing the flag of a Canadian naval officer, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Admiral Rayner went aboard at 8.30 a.m. in an RCN helicopter while the Coral Sea was lying near the pilotage buoy, 2½ miles south of the Ogden Point breakwater.

The RCN 'copter was the second aircraft to land on the Coral Sea's flight deck since her re-commissioning Jan. 25.

Admiral Rayner was greeted by a U.S. Marines guard of honor and the ship's band, drawn up on the flight deck. He officially welcomed Capt. Gray and his ship to Canadian waters.

Before the arrival of the admiral, a press party was put aboard the ship from an RCN harborcraft, but not without difficulty.

TOO HIGH

The mast of the harborcraft was just two feet too high to allow the small craft to lie alongside the carrier's companionway, and the mast struck against an overhanging bay in the Coral Sea's side.

The carrier put a motor launch overside to pick up the press representatives, lowering the launch on a crane, then picking it up and returning it to the ship, with passengers and crew still aboard.

Capt. Walter Gosse of the B.C. Pilotage Authority went aboard at 8.45 a.m. The giant ship was his responsibility until she docked at Vancouver, the largest ship ever to pass through the First Narrows.

The Coral Sea's flight deck is longer than three football fields. At the widest point, it is 230 feet in beam. From keel to top of the mast, the ship is as tall as a 20-story building.

A floating city, she is home to 3,000 men drawing a monthly payroll of over $225,000. There's everything aboard for living as well as fighting—facilities ranging from shoe repair shops to volleyball and basketball courts, from a daily newspaper office to ice cream plants and a steam room.

75 PLANES

Although there are no aircraft aboard today, when the Coral Sea is at fighting strength she will carry over 75, including the A3D jet-powered Sky Warrior, which weighs in excess of 60,000 pounds. She'll also have the F8U Crusader (jet fighter), the F3H Demon (jet all-weather fighter), the A4D Sky Hawk (smallest jet bomber) and the AD Sky Raider (internal combustion fighter-bomber.)

The big ship can steam at a speed officially termed "in excess of 30 knots."

She will be at Vancouver until Monday morning, when she leaves for Seattle.

VETERAN OF THE BATTLE of Midway and other major actions of the Second World War, Capt. James S. Gray Jr. is commanding officer of the USS Coral Sea. For distinguished service to his country, Capt. Gray holds five distinguished flying crosses, five air medals, the treasury department gold life saving medal, two presidential unit citations and two navy unit citations. He also holds the Pacific campaign ribbon with five stars and the occupation medal with Asiatic and European clasps. He has served with the USN since 1936.

Navy Reserve Unit Praised By Inspector

Annual inspection of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve unit, was highlighted Thursday night by the presentation of the Adams Trophy for safe flying to the VC-922 air squadron.

Commodore E. W. Finch-Noyes, commanding officer of naval divisions, from Hamilton, presented the trophy to Lieut. Cmdr. D. J. Slader, commanding officer of the reserve naval air squadron.

Commodore Finch-Noyes praised the Patricia Bay-based air squadron for winning the trophy for two years in succession, first time this has been accomplished in the history of the trophy. VC-922 hasn't had an accident since July, 1957.

RECRUITING BETTER

Commodore Finch-Noyes also spoke of the encouraging upswing in recruiting among the 21 naval divisions in Canada and singled out the Victoria unit for great achievements in this regard.

The fact that HMCS Malahat is based at the seashore and next to a helpful RCN force, has been a great factor in keeping recruiting at a high level, he said.

Members of Malahat are able to get in day cruises in small harbor craft and this too has helped keep up interest, the commodore said.

City 'Over the Hump' On Unemployment

20% Less Demand Seen Next Year

A hopeful forecast that next winter will see a drop in high levels of unemployment marked the start of city council's annual budget grind today.

City health and welfare budgets were scanned and passed on to council for a final say at the opening session of a series of committee meetings to screen departmental estimates for 1960.

Total estimated expenditures for health and welfare, up by $34,600, were left unchanged after 1½ hours of scrutiny in committee. The parks budget also was to be sifted today.

Next week, finance and public works committees will begin going through their estimates.

TRIMMING

Committee-approved items then will go to city council for trimming before the 1960 mill rate is struck. Deadline for completion of the entire process is May 15.

Welfare administrator William Hooson told committee that he is "optimistic" this year's decline in winter unemployment will continue next winter.

He estimated that only $120,000 will be required to meet the needs of winter jobless, down $13,500 from last year despite a 20 per cent increase in benefits.

"I am estimating a drop of 20 per cent," he said.

"The winter of 1958-59 was the worst I have ever experienced and I hope I never see it again. We were getting upwards of 500 new cases a month compared with a normal, that is pre-1956, of 25.

"But there was a drop during this past winter, thank goodness, and I am hoping that next winter will be better."

The general 20 per cent boost in allowances by the provincial budget this year will raise city expenditures for assistance to indigents by $67,250 to $460,000.

RECOVERABLE

But most of the money will be recovered from the provincial government which pays 90 per cent of pooled welfare expenditures by B.C. municipalities.

The gross expenditure estimated for this year by Mr. Hooson is $1,071,621, compared with $956,456 in 1959. But the net cost to ratepayers will go up only $37,021 to $222,121 after government grants are received.

Fate of Accused In Murder Trial Known Soon

Case of Edith Etheline (Ivy) Davis, 48, accused of the murder of her husband here 13 years ago, went to the jury at 12.45 this afternoon on the fourth day of her Assize Court trial.

Mr. Justice D. R. Verchere began his charge to the jury at 10.35 a.m.

The jury has four choices, he said: To convict for murder, not guilty of murder, to convict of manslaughter, or to acquit by reason of insanity.

If the jury found Mrs. Davis was incapable of knowing the nature and quality of her alleged act at that time because of insanity, she should be acquitted, he said.

The justice discounted any possibility of suicide or an attack by a third person in the death of William A. Davis, then president of Davis Motors Ltd., who was killed by a throat slashing with a butcher knife Oct. 9, 1947.

The accused was sitting in a chair near the body, which was found on the carpet in the living room. Her own throat was cut and her wrists slashed.

She was subsequently found unfit to stand trial by reason of insanity, and spent 12 years in Essondale mental home. Psychiatrists judged her sufficiently sane to face the charge at this time.

Old Courthouse Fate Uncertain

There is still no decision on what will be done with the existing Victoria Courthouse when the new Law Courts are opened, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said in the legislature today.

He renewed a pledge which Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said was made in 1956, that the government will build a new courthouse at Duncan—but didn't set a date.

SOCREDS OUTSPENT OTHERS 3 TO 1 IN ROSSLAND WIN

The Social Credit Party spent almost three times as much as any other party in campaigning for the by-election won by Don Brothers (SC, Rossland-Trail) in December, 1958.

The by-election was held following the resignation of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, who later was jailed for bribery and conspiracy.

A reply to a question filed on the legislature order paper showed candidate Brothers spent just under $2,000, while the Social Credit central committee spent $14,981. The Progressive Conservative Party spent just under $6,000, the Liberals $4,046 and the CCF $1,904.

Threat to City Denied by Chant

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said today he wasn't threatening Victoria when he said earlier that press criticisms might cause delay in government grants to the city.

But he added, "The concentration of government buildings doesn't have to be in the capital city."

This wasn't a threat either, he said. But he is only one man on cabinet, and when newspapers "distort the facts" it makes it difficult. "When you belittle what another is doing, it doesn't make them feel like doing it."

He said, "I represent the city . . . I want to get it all possible," but the tone of some newspaper editorials makes it difficult.

George Gregory (Lib.-Victoria) opened discussion on Mr. Chant's estimates this morning—the first morning session since 1958 and the only one this session. It was called to speed final business in preparation for prorogation this afternoon.

Mr. Gregory recalled that in an earlier speech the minister castigated an editorial. It had said Victoria loses tax revenues through the fact the government pays no taxes locally. It pointed out, the government contributions to the Capital District Improvement Commission was not proper compensation and did not help the city budget.

Mr. Gregory said the minister's reply, that this attitude could delay assistance to the city, implied a threat. "I think it was disgraceful."

Man's Condition 'Poor' After Street Assault

An elderly man is in poor condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today from head injuries received when he was struck on the head by a young man on Broad Street Thursday night.

John Fallardeau, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today of assulting James Cruikshank, 73, of 233 Menzies Street.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him for sentence until Saturday.

"I would like to hear a further report on the man's condition before passing sentence," he said.

Police testified that Fallardeau, who has a criminal record, struck Mr. Cruikshank for no apparent reason.

Fallardeau said he was drunk at the time and could not explain why he had hit the elderly man.

Victim of Fall Still Critical

Condition of a 74-year-old woman who fell onto concrete steps after dropping 21 feet from the window of her second-storey bedroom, was described as "critical" by officials of St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Mrs. Alice Wild, a guest of Beacon Hill Rest Home, 635 Superior Street, suffered internal injuries, two fractured legs and a fractured elbow and wrist in the fall.

No one saw the accident or heard any scream from the falling woman.

Tempt Restless Appetites With Barbecued Fish Tips!

By PENNY SAVER

During this season of the year, when appetites, like their owners, are inclined to get a touch of spring restlessness, try barbecued tips that sell at 49 cents a pound. Tips are a mixture of salmon and cod and are really delicious.

Supplies of cod are good. Pieces sell at 29 cents a pound and fillet slices are priced at 39 cents a pound. For cod with a different flavor try local smoked cod, selling for 39 cents, too.

Wonderfully inexpensive meal can be had by buying pork neck bones. Butcher tells me that his customers come back, time and time again for them. Many cook them with a barbecue sauce—just like spareribs. Price? Just 25 cents for two pounds.

Oxtails, at 25 cents a pound, are what you've been looking for to use as a base for flavorful soup. Other good soup or stew ingredients are beef shank slices, economically priced at 49 cents a pound. Pork steaks at 49 cents a pound, and shoulder lamb chops, selling for 59 cents a pound, will appeal to any budget-conscious housewife.

You can afford to really splurge on a good family roast if you take advantage of sale on pork shoulders. These are going for only 29 cents a pound. While you're picking up your meat don't forget to stock up on pure beef dripping that butcher prepares himself and sells at 15 cents a pound.

For a table delicacy to tempt appetites of your family or guests I'd suggest some of the sugared apricots that have just arrived from Australia. Apricots are priced at 85 cents a pound.

More and more varieties of salad ingredients and vegetables are appearing in downtown stores. As a change from lettuce, why not try kale, selling at 19 cents a bunch? Fresh beets are priced at 35 cents for two bunches, asparagus is down to 49 cents a pound and fresh spinach sells for 19 cents a bunch. Tender cucumbers sell at 29 cents, red cabbage at 23 cents a pound and fresh peas are priced at 29 cents a pound.

Wedding in St. Alban's

Baskets of daffodils, tulips and ferns decorated St. Alban's Anglican Church recently, for marriage uniting Patricia Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ferguson, Hamilton Road, and Robert Harold Caton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Caton, Knotty Pine Road. Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated at evening service.

Bride entered church on arm of her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white lace. Bodice was in fitted style and skirt was in three tiers. Her veil of lace was held by a headpiece of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. A. Stead wore a taffeta gown in pink. Bodice was topped with an overlay of white lace trimmed with pink satin bow. Miss Barbara Ferguson was bridesmaid, wearing a blue dress in similar style. Both wore tiaras en tone and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Best man was John Ellis and usher was Brian Tennyson.

At reception in Holyrood House, mother of bride received guests wearing a rose-toned sheath-style dress topped with matching jacket. She had white accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Groom's mother wore a blue lace dress, pink accessories and carnation corsage.

Three-tier cake was cut by newlyweds. It centred bridal table which was decorated with red roses. A E. MacDonald proposed the toast.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Portland, bride donned a navy blue sheath-style dress with matching jacket and white accessories.

WHY GROW OLD?

Q. "I am 14 years old and am 4 feet 11 inches tall. I weigh 106 pounds. My measurements are bust 32 inches, waist 23 and hips 32. Am I overweight? Also I have bumps of fat on the insides of my knees."

A. You are overweight. I would say that you should lose at least 10 pounds. Eat a well balanced diet but less of it. Your measurements are in good ratio.

Q. "I am 13 years old and am going steady with a boy. All of a sudden he avoids me. I like him and want to keep him. How can I improve my personality? How can I improve my figure? My measurements are 34-26-35."

A. I am happy that something saved you from going steady at the age of 13. It is a boring enough idea even at a later age. You should be enjoying lots of friends and you are surely too young to take anyone seriously. Your measurements are very good for one of your age. The boy you mention will like you lots better if you just act in a friendly, casual and pleasant way. If he thinks you are running after him, he probably will run faster than you can.

Q. "Please tell me how much overweight I am. I weigh 155 pounds and am 5 feet 4 inches tall. My bust measures 38 inches, waist 31 and hips 42. I am 30 years old and have very large bones."

A. Even with a large frame you should lose around eight pounds. If your frame were medium, you should not weigh more than 132 pounds.

Q. "I am 18 years old, 5 feet and 3 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. Am I overweight? If so, how much. I am small boned. I worry about this so much."

A. You should weigh about 116 pounds or even a few less. Don't worry, just get busy watching your diet a bit.

Q. "I am 5 feet 8½ inches tall and am 14 years old. I weigh 120 pounds. Am I overweight?"

A. You did not tell me anything about your build. If you are a small frame your weight is just about right. If you have a medium build, you should gain around 12 pounds.

DEAR ABBY

Why Want to Take Her Home?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: No names please. I am a respected businessman. I have in my employ an attractive young woman who is divorced. When I go home in the evening I pass her apartment.

My wife says that under no circumstances should I take this woman to work or give her a ride home. I feel that my wife is being very small and narrow-minded. These orders came as a result of my giving this woman a ride home one evening. I have so far respected my wife's wishes. Do you think she is being fair?

NAMELESS.

DEAR NAMELESS: You owe your wife more than you owe your employee. Respect her "small and narrow-minded" wishes.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Dr. A. has been our family physician for years. We are not satisfied with his services and would like to switch to Dr. B. I have heard that it is unethical for a doctor to treat another doctor's patient. Can you tell me how to go about making this change? No one in the family is ill at this time.

DISSATISFIED.

DEAR DISSATISFIED: First, tell Dr. A. that you are dissatisfied with his services and want to make a change. Then go to Dr. B. and tell him that you were formerly Dr. A's patient, but informed him that you were making a change.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please, please print this. It's too late for me, but maybe it will help someone else.

I had a nice home and good parents. Of course I thought they were bossy and old-fashioned because they didn't want me to go with a certain boy of a different faith who had a bad reputation. So I listened to my boy friend and didn't let my parents push me around. I lied and cheated and finally married the guy. He "understood" me. My parents didn't. How dumb can a 23-year-old girl get?

Three months ago I buried my mother. I broke her heart, Abby. She just gave up. I was her only daughter and I betrayed her. I am still married and now who do you think is pushing me around? My idol, who taught me how to lie and cheat, is now lying and cheating on me. If I ever have children, I pray to God I never have a daughter. My message is: Girls, listen to your parents. They love you.

"KNEW IT ALL AT 23; KNOWS NOTHING AT 26."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Three of us girls would like to know if you think it is wrong to neck with a boy in the show. We have asked our mothers and they said if they saw us kissing a boy in the show it would be the last movie we would ever see. Are they old-fashioned or are we too young? We are 13.

THREE GIRLS WITH ONE QUESTION.

DEAR GIRLS: It is not proper to kiss a boy in the show at any age.

* * *

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-Ager Wants to Know," send 25c and a large self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Girls and Diamonds Go Together Says Man Who Knows Jewelry Well

TORONTO (CP)—The song says diamonds are a girl's best friend, but Edward B. Tiffany says girls are a diamond's best friend.

Mr. Tiffany, manager of the diamond department of a leading Toronto jewelry store is distantly related to the founders of the famous New York jewelry firm.

"But it was a long time ago . . . our ancestors were related," he explains.

The European influence, both in design and the actual wearing of jewelry, now is being felt in Canada, he said.

"Europeans are more jewelry-conscious, and the women even wear their jewelry in the daytime."

Although Canadian women have been more hesitant than those in Europe about wearing jewelry, increasing travel to Europe is making Canadians more aware of it, said Mr. Tiffany.

"The proper jewelry is a great attribute to any costume on any occasion."

Colored stones are becoming more popular, and are often used in engagement rings, alone or with diamonds.

The Italian influence is in evidence in multi-colored sets.

"Pearls can be worn anywhere, any time," says Mr. Tiffany.

"The common belief that pearls discolor if they are not brought out into the light at intervals is a fallacy.

"That's from the old days when women would lock their pearls up in a bank vault for long periods and the pearls would lose their moisture," he explained. The natural oil of the skin aids in keeping the pearl, but rough treatment is frowned on.

Mr. Tiffany recommends running a pearl necklace through a paper tissue or piece of chamois after each wearing to remove makeup traces and perspiration which may soil the silk thread.

All jewelry gets dirty and needs to be cleaned periodically. Some stores do it at no charge.

Jewelry should be kept in a proper box with individual compartments for each piece. This prevents injury to both the metal and stones.

"While many old pieces are still charming, many can be improved by a new design." Often one large piece can be made into several smaller pieces, or an old piece may be the nucleus of a new piece with the addition of several stones.

The new jewelry is in 3-D. The three-dimensional effect is obvious when comparing the older, more flat pieces, and the new moulded pieces.

Maritime Women Support Atlantic Economic Council

HALIFAX (CP)—Women of the Maritimes are organizing to support the work of their men in the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, an organization of business and professional leaders set up several years ago to promote economic development of the four eastern provinces.

Women's Atlantic councils already exist in Fredericton and Saint John, N.B. A third is to be formed in Halifax next week.

Mrs. Isobel MacAulay, president of the Halifax Soroptimist Clubs, heads the campaign to organize the Halifax branch. About 100 women are expected to attend the first meeting called for March 18.

Mrs. MacAulay is secretary-treasurer of Nova Scotia Tartan Ltd., a Halifax firm that specializes in Scottish tartans and handcrafts.

She says: "The women's Atlantic council was originated for the purpose of developing a better understanding of the basic economic problems of the Atlantic region. Although it is separate to the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council, it is closely affiliated with it."

PURPOSES LISTED

She lists the purposes of the women's council as:

1. To develop the members' knowledge and understanding of the economic processes operating within the Atlantic region.
2. To extend this knowledge and understanding among all women in the Atlantic region.
3. To stimulate and encourage programs and activities which will serve the economic and social welfare of the people of the region.
4. To support the program and activities of APEC.
5. To co-operate with other agencies in the furtherance of the economic and social welfare of the Atlantic area.

Graceful, Classic, Feminine Fashions Modelled at Showing

Fresh emphasis on femininity in tune for spring, and a return to classic simplicity were highlights of "The New Grace for 1960," a glance through the fashion window presented Thursday morning by Hudson's Bay Company in store's Douglas Room.

Kinette Club of Victoria sponsored presentation, which was opened by president, Mrs. H. O. Roache.

Beige and more beige appeared in fabulous collection of suits, coats, dresses, hats and accessories. Brighter, splashier and more vibrant hues lent accent of the frivilous and startling.

Show opened on note of gaiety as mannequins Helen Beirnes, Judi Grimshaw, Janet Crane and June Charlton appeared wearing saucy, floral, patchwork and Oriental printed rain duds.

Royal elegance in spring topcoats were next on list of styles. Moss shag, rage of the season, was shown in a cape-collared, robin's egg blue coat worn by Doris Usher. Her felt Garbo hat en tone was by Hugh Beresford of London.

A coat with versatility of Blin and Blin Imperata was modelled by Helen Beirnes. In clutch style, slim lined topper featured a lush, soft collar of lynx dyed fox for clipping on or taking off as wearer desires.

Suits with a three-piece look were featured in paintbox tones. Mary Rawnsley modelled a chic number of three-quarter coat, blouse and skirt in beige and spice tones. Her wide halo Breton sailor was in light chocolate tone.

Tall, auburn-haired Judi Grimshaw was a picture in a gay sports ensemble featuring pineapple tweed slim jims topped with flower printed cummerbund blouse. She carried a swinging basket of "forbidden fruit."

Shirtwaists with full skirts, slim skirts in cottons, silks and light wool took the fore. Janet Crane showed very new silk square printed sheath in this style. In beige, brown and white this slick little dress was teamed with a Maggy Rouffe Baku skimmer hat.

Wedding finale included guests, mother of bride, bridal attendants and bride. Pure silk, rose-print sheath dress in antique ruby was worn by Mrs. Sybil Bateman, bride's mother. Organza turban by Justine and sapphire blue Canadian mink stole completed her outfit.

Trio of attendants wearing delicate shades of melon pink, frosted blue and sky blue were Helen Beirnes, Doris Usher and Judi Grimshaw. Dresses of silk organza had full skirts, moulded bodices and filmy fichu collars. True bride was dark-haired Janet Crane. Her portrait gown was of silk organza with panelled front outlined in appliqued Alencon lace. On either side of dress were pouffed panels of silk organza.

Commentator was Miss Adele Goult.

Showings continue tonight at 7.30 p.m., Saturday at 11 a.m. and 2.30 p.m.

Tax on Pipelines For Municipalities

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta government has decided on a new source of tax revenue for rural municipalities while drawing up plans for a proposed provincial industrial tax scheme.

Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke said Thursday a plan to permit rural municipalities to tax pipelines and powerlines is designed to reduce revenue losses that will be suffered by some rural municipalities when the provincial tax plan becomes effective.

A bill was introduced last week in the Alberta legislature that would permit the province to tax certain industrial plants and distribute the revenue both to municipalities where the plants are located and to those providing services to plant workers.

Industries paying the provincial municipal tax would not have to pay additional municipal taxes, except for local improvement or frontage taxes in cases where they are levied.

Further Study Proposed on Automation

The effects of automation on the labor force in B.C. likely will get further study by a legislative committee in 1961.

The standing labor committee reported to the House on Thursday more time is needed before any recommendations on the solution to the problem and its relation to unemployment could be reached.

The committee did not have enough facts or data, said chairman Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt).

He urged the education and labor departments of the government take up the study of automation.

Born in England, he died Monday in Veterans' Hospital.

During the First World War he served with the PPCLI and was wounded in 1918.

Following the war Mr. Myers served as a representative of Canada's war disabled and pension problems, earning the title "pension king." He also served later as national secretary, War Amputations Society. Interested in work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, he was at one time national secretary.

Survivors include the widow, Lucy, 1855 Fort; two sons, Fred and Alexander of Toronto; two daughters, Doris, Victoria, and Marian, Toronto.

MEAL TICKETS SOLD FOR DIME TO GET LIQUOR

'Pro Scroungers' Chisel Agencies, Bruch Charges

Meal tickets are sold at 10 cents each on the Johnson Street "stock exchange," Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt) told the legislature Thursday.

"Some of our charitable organizations are being taken in by professional scroungers," he declared.

Mr. Bruch said scroungers beg meal tickets from these organizations and then sell them to buy liquor. He had heard of one woman who had 17 tickets in her purse and sold them.

"The community at large should be made aware of just what the situation is."

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who controls the social welfare department, answered that every section of the community contains a minority of persons who "chisel" on charity.

"There is always the odd man who will obtain a welfare allowance and spend it on a party while his wife and children go without.

"Our social welfare workers do all they can to thwart these tricksters, but there is no fool-proof method. We can only appeal to members of this House and to the public at large to inform of any abuses that are going on.

"Then we can investigate them."

He added that the "chiseller" was one of the greatest problems facing welfare workers today.

"But we have found that it is more expedient to give out meal tickets than cash."

Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) and Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) spoke highly of B.C. welfare workers but said they had too much to do.

TRYING HARD

Mr. Black replied that every effort is being made to recruit and train more social workers to relieve the load on existing staffs.

He said the department had recently created 23 new staff positions, comprising 17 social workers and six clerical workers.

SCOUT ADMITS SHOOTING FOSTER FATHER 7 TIMES

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A 13-year-old Boy Scout admitted Thursday he shot his foster father to death when the latter threatened to spank him unless his homework was done properly.

Robert Fairbank, sombre but tearless, signed a statement giving details of the pistol-slaying Wednesday night in the family's ranch-type home in suburban Onondaga Hill, District Attorney Arthur Wilson said. The boy will be turned over to children's court.

The bullet-riddled body of Leon Fairbank was found sprawled in a pool of blood in the bathroom. He had been shot seven times in the back and head with a .22-calibre pistol.

A policeman found Robert walking near a park on the city's southwest side in mid-morning. The pistol, with one bullet in the chamber, dangled from a holster strapped to Robert's belt.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

The principle that a defender should not lead a suit which declarer and dummy can both trump is so elementary, that many players follow it blindly regardless of the particular situation confronting them. Like most principles it has its exceptions.

Opening lead—♥ Q

West opened the queen of hearts. North's king fell to East's ace and a second heart was ruffed. South played the ace of diamonds and the bad news was out. He was going to lose a trump trick.

Nothing daunted South cashed the king of trumps, overtook his queen of spades with dummy's king and ruffed dummy's last heart. Then he cashed the ace of spades and put East in the lead with a trump.

Unfortunately for South, East had taken the trouble to count the hand. South had shown up with one heart, six diamonds and probably two spades. With more than this he surely would have played the spades in different fashion.

That left South with four clubs. Assuming West held the club queen East could afford to give a sluff and a ruff. He couldn't afford a club lead so East led his last heart and eventually West's queen of clubs set the hand.

Jane Powell Joins Victor Borge In Hour of Music, Comedy at 8.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

'TWAS FOINE—Whatever Bing Crosby's party for Perry Como lacked a fortnight ago was more than made up for by Perry's shindig in honor of Bing, Wednesday night.

What made the difference? I honestly don't know unless it was the substitution of French thrush and mince-meater of the Queen's English, Genevieve, for the Crosby boys. Whereas they deflated she inflated. To hear her mangle "Hennessey, Tennessey" was, to coin a phrase, worth the price of admission alone.

In brief, whenever Genevieve was on she was like a busy little spark going about lighting conflagrations.

Mr. C and Mr. C were in rare form. Their handling of such classics as "I Scream for Ice Cream," "Barney Google," "Collegiate" and "Yes We Have No Bananas" was zany and entertaining.

Then there were the unexpected boo-boos that only added charm to a charming show. Bing, for instance, had some trouble spelling "Constantinople" while Perry's solo was badly dented by the sound of something falling backstage that couldn't have been much smaller than the Empire State building.

And then, if toppers were needed, there was the singing of the Ray Charles Singers and, one of the niftiest pieces of the night, the dancing of Peter Gennaro.

No, let's jot this down as Perry Como's best show of the season for which, I suppose, the Oirish will claim all the credit.

* * *

INFORMATIVE—It was rather a morbid dive from the cheery heights of the Como combo to circle Theatre's hour-long documentation of a near-suicide. But it was worth it in the name of understanding.

Capable Alexander Scourby, remembered for his recent appearance in Du Pont's "Arrowsmith" and Playhouse 90's "A Dream of Treason," was excellent as professor Carl Fremont, an outwardly cheerful, normal man, who was, however, fighting a feeling of rejection born in infancy. It took but one incident, a small slight from a former pupil who had made a name for himself as a novelist, to trigger the full flow of depression.

Fortunately, medical aid supplied at the crucial moment saved Fremont's life. But one understood better after the dramatization concluded why so many kill themselves and how difficult it is for even those closest to them to recognize the symptoms in time.

SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

GRADES
FROM!

"FOREST"
CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1⅛" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 8-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensured a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.
"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

People and Things

(From Times News Services)

CHESTER, Eng.—An army mine detection unit hustled over to the local zoo Thursday.

The problem was digestive, not explosive. Oswald the ostrich was refusing to eat.

The soldiers ran their mine detector up and down his neck and promptly diagnosed his complaint — a swallowed padlock.

But as keepers were discussing an operation, Oswald started eating again and the operation was postponed pending further observation.

NEW YORK — In some offices the signs on the walls say "think." Signs appearing in all New York police offices today are a little more specific. They say: "Bribery is a crime."

MILAN, Italy — Gina Lollobrigida's father says that if his daughter emigrates to Canada it will be "bad acting toward her country and her family."

Her father was quoted as saying that if Gina gives up her Italian nationality "she'd be like a stranger in my home."

NEW YORK—Singer Dick Haymes has reached the point of no return. Every time he gets a job, his creditors descend on him and gobble up his pay cheque.

Haymes, 41, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in federal court Thursday. He said he had $9 in the bank and owed $522,242.

He said he had 200 creditors.

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif.—Actor William Talman Thursday pleaded not guilty to a morals charge—and was fired soon afterward from his role as district attorney on television's Perry Mason show.

Police said Talman, 45, and seven other men and women were arrested nude at a Hollywood party where marijuana was in evidence.

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — The principal of Allentown Central Catholic High School has issued an edict barring pupils from going steady.

Rev. Stephen J. Daday said Thursday the new order was based on the belief steady dating "has many serious consequences for high school students."

"It creates distractions to make concentrated study impossible. It often leads to marriages between couples who are too immature emotionally to assume the obligations of the marriage state.

"It sometimes occasions what we might call 'forced marriages.'"

LONDON — Tiny Rutland county, soon to be incorporated into a larger county, has posted road signs reading "drive slowly—this county is disappearing."

... HOPE

and his brother Alexander, 25, and John Correglio, 45. All are immigrants from Italy.

The body of Pasquale Allegrezza, 27, was found by rescuers 150 feet along the tunnel. He was slumped across a section of the 36-inch water pipe he had been welding.

Earlier in the operation Walter Andruschuk, 51, was hauled semi-conscious from the mucky bottom of the hot, smoke-fillled tunnel. He and two rescuers who were overcome by the smoke and heat were in fair condition in hospital.

POISONOUS SMOKE

The fire began in electrical cables feeding the welding torches and spread to compressed air lines. Thick, poisonous smoke swiftly filled the tunnel and began pouring from the main shaft.

Within minutes a huge force of rescue workers was at the scene. But they were faced with a desperate situation. The only way to clear smoke from the underground passage was to decompress the tunnel. But this would allow sand and water, held back by the high air pressure, to seep in.

The section of tunnel where the men were at work is under the shallow Don River.

Charles Valentini, only member of the crew to scramble to safety after the fire, said: "I left hell when I ran."

GROPED WAY BACK

He said the men crawled on hands and knees to avoid the fumes but he was the only one to go in the right direction. Later he groped his way back into the tunnel but couldn't guide the others out.

"I held hands with one of them. He slipped. I couldn't wait. It must be 300 degrees down there. I've got to go back." But he was taken to hospital.

As workers broke through sealed bulkheads, the air pressure dropped and the tunnel began to fill with water and sludge. One rescuer, trying to reach the tunnel's depths on his belly, was dragged back half drowned.

Attempts to recover the bodies were halted when officials decided to pump air back into the compartments and force out the water before risking any lives.

Judge Rules Against B.C. Act

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the British Columbia supreme court ruled Thursday that part of the provincial workmen's compensation act is unconstitutional.

Mr. Justice Manson said in reasons for his judgment that sections of the act allowed the board to set up a medical tribunal which had the power of judges yet against which no appeal is allowed.

In Victoria, attorney-general Robert Bonner said department officials would study the ruling as soon as possible. He said it was likely the government would appeal.

The question of legality arose when Mrs. Mary Farrell, 42, of North Vancouver, applied to have quashed a board decision refusing a pension for herself and her four children following the death of her husband, John, 50.

Mr. Justice Manson adjourned the case two weeks ago to hear argument by M. McFarlane for the attorney-general. Following Thursday's decision he granted Mrs. Farrell's application and ordered the board to pay compensation.

Mrs. Farrell's counsel, Thomas R. Berger, said Mr. Farrel died while working in North Vancouver Hospital. He said a coroner's jury found death resulted from over-exertion which aggravated an unsuspected heart condition.

The compensation board ruled death due to natural causes and decided compensation would not be paid.

Milk From Canada Banned by Japanese

TOKYO (Reuters) — The Japanese welfare ministry today banned the use of milk powder imported from Canada after school officials reported that 600 children became ill with diarrhoea.

In Ottawa, Agriculture Minister Harkness suggested today that the milk must either have been contaminated through contact with some other substance or kept too long beore consumption.

Hoodlum on Loose

PATERSON, N.J. (UPI) — Deported hoodlum Mike Spinella has fled the Isle of Capri and is believed to be in this country, possibly in his native New Jersey, police said today.

... CRASH

Laughlin Motors, Winnipeg, and his wife, Gladys, about 49.

Mr. Gardner and the Heucherts left Winnipeg at 7.05 a.m. aboard a Northwest Air Lines flight to Minneapolis, where they boarded the ill-fated flight to Miami, Fla.

HEADED FOR VACATIONS

Mr. Gardner was joined at Minneapolis by his son, a student at Shattuck Military Academy, Faribault, Minn., about 50 miles from Minneapolis. They were headed eventually for a vacation in Jamaica.

Mr. and Mrs. Heuchert were planning to spend a vacation in Florida.

Mrs. Martha Chalfen, 31, former Kirkland Lake, Ont., woman and her three young children were also among the victims. A professional skater, she married Morris Chalfen, promoter of the Holiday on Ice Show. Mr. Chalfen was in Paris with the show at the time of the accident.

Sgt. Joe O'Brien of the Indiana state police said the plane was last heard from over Scotland, Ind., about 60 miles from the crash scene. He said the pilot reported no trouble.

LIKE SHELLS

The Federal Aviation Agency refused to disclose anything about the last radio contacts with the plane.

Witnesses first heard aerial explosions—to one the sound was like 16-inch artillery shells, to another like the noise of a shotgun—and then saw a wing break through the clouds, followed by the main body of the plane.

In the early excitement and horror, observers thought the wing was the body of a jet plane and that there had been an aerial collision.

Some residents snatched up pieces of wreckage for souvenirs before police blocked off the area.

BOMB THREAT

About an hour and a half after news of the crash came out, a person who sounded like a young boy telephoned Chicago police that a bomb had been planted on a plane at Midway Airport.

Police said they investigated and were convinced the call was a prank.

Slattery said the airliner was "a new plane. It had been in service only a few weeks."

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Hees said today U.S. aeronautics authorities are keeping Canadian officials advised on the progress of investigations into suspected bombings of commercial airliners.

He was replying to Gordon Chown (PC, Winnipeg South), who asked in the Commons what steps were being taken to prevent such disasters occurring in Canada.

Careless Blasting Charge Thrown Out

A Vancouver Island powderman accused of carelessness in the use of explosives on Mount Prevost in January was found not guilty in Saanich police court Thursday after a three-hour trial.

A similar charge against Wakeman and Trimble Contractors Ltd., 350 Windermere, with whom the accused Donald McGeachy was employed, was withdrawn on application of the Crown.

It was charged that a blast of dynamite set off by McGeachy, of Duncan, to provide rock for Turkey Head breakwater, caused several hundred dollars damage to the home of Hal Gonder, 5085 Lockhaven, and narrowly missed injuring Mrs. Gonder when rocks fell on the house, Jan. 23.

WOMAN FRIGHTENED

"Instinctively, it frightened me," Mrs. Gonder told the court, relating how she was lying down when she heard the blast. "I sat up and something hit beside me against the bedroom wall."

Outside, a chunk of granite roughly a foot square had crashed against the house.

Magistrate William Ostler found that McGeachy used "reasonable care under existing circumstances" and according to the evidence the blast may have caused a shower of loose rock because of a possible fault in the rock formation.

He noted that it was a serious offence, carrying a possible penalty of 14 years in prison, "and therefore one must be particularly careful to find (if convicting) that reasonable care was not used.

"The accident certainly was not unavoidable, and in the circumstances I must dismiss."

USED LESS POWDER

McGeachy told the court he used a smaller amount of powder in order to obtain larger pieces of rock for the breakwater, that he arranged the charge so that it would blow away from houses and that in the two months since, he could think of nothing he might have done to prevent the accident.

EXAMINING BOARD PROPOSED TO BONNER

Riding Academy Controls Asked by City Horseman

Victoria Riding Academy has asked the B.C. government to regulate riding academies and instructors in the interest of public safety.

D. B. Carley, proprietor of the academy, wants a board of examiners appointed by the province. Riding school owners and operators and all instructional personnel should be required to pass a test to obtain a certificate, he said.

Mr. Carley wrote to Attorney-General Robert Bonner:

". . . At present uncontrolled individuals and groups are setting out and offering to the general public, teaching in a profession with insufficient, and in many cases, no knowledge or experienced background or academic training when they embark on a highly specialized field of education pertaining to horsemanship and riding."

At present any child or adult may rent unschooled horses at what may appear to be attractive fees and left on their own to ride in parks, through the countryside or on highways "often bareback and with no competent person in attendance."

As a result, the competent schools are liable to come into disfavor, said Mr. Carley.

He suggested an Association of Academies be established. Members should be qualified members of existing reputable riding schools to set standards for anyone wishing to enter the field.

City Urged To Retain Unique Style

A tourist trade spokesman Thursday warned that erosion of Victoria's unique atmosphere would shrink the flow of tourists.

Bernie Cox told a Community Planning Association of Canada branch meeting that Victoria was locked in a "tremendous fight" for tourist business with places like Mexico that stress old-world charm.

He asked a panel of planners to remember the necessity of retaining the original character of the city and preserving historic buildings like Bastion Square.

Roderick Clack, assistant city engineer, said the proposed downtown mall and car park would restore the "intimate and friendly town square character" to the downtown area.

Mr. Cox's fears apparently were echoed in numerous phone calls and letters Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, in an interview, said he received on the proposal to replace the downtown cluster lights with modern mercury lamps.

All persons who contacted him opposed abandonment of the cluster lights, he said.

But Ald. Edgelow said he would obtain figures on how many accidents were blamed on poor lighting in the downtown area before he opposed the new lights in committee.

Industrial Potential To Be Mapped

A complete assessment of industrial potential here will be completed soon by an affiliate of B.C. Electric Company.

The survey is being conducted by Western Development and Power Ltd., the industrial promotion branch of the B.C. Power Corporation.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, Thursday, said he still hopes to set up a voluntary committee this year which could use the survey results in helping promote establishment of light industries in the city.

Bridge Workers To Bear Own Legal Expenses

The B.C. government can't accept costs of a trade union's legal battle brought about through a work stoppage last year on the Second Narrows Bridge in Vancouver.

Attorney - General Robert Bonner made the statement following demands from the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers' Union. Vancouver Labor Council supported the stand that the government should pay $12,351 in legal fees because the union won the case, in Appeal Court.

The union fought a court conviction for contempt after ignoring an injunction. But although the bridge was a government contract, the injunction had been sought by the contractors, Dominion Bridge Company.

"These proceedings were between private parties and the disposition of costs is subject of a court order. It is not an area in which we can intervene," said Mr. Bonner.

Earlier, Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said the company's action in seeking an injunction was "improper and totally irresponsible."

VICTOR E. VIRGIN . . . Saanich candidate.

Tories Name Flagbearer

Victor E. Virgin, Saanichton, was chosen as Progressive Conservative provincial candidate for Saanich constituency Thursday night.

Saanich PC Association also passed a motion urging the provincial party to adopt a policy in favor of flat rates for truck and car licences throughout the province.

FRANCE PLANS AIR FORCE CUT

PARIS (Reuters) — France will reduce its air force personnel this year by about 5 per cent, to 139,000 from 146,000, a defence ministry bulletin said Thursday. Most of those taken off air force strength will be transferred to the army.

MACHINISTS WIN APPEAL

Rival VMD Unions Told to Get Along

Two competing unions at Victoria Machinery Depot were, in effect, told to try and get along with each other in an appeal court judgment by Mr. Justice Sidney Smith made available today.

He pointed out the jurisdictional dispute had come about because of "rivalry" between two groups in recent years.

Machinists, Fitters and Helpers, Local 3, appealed against an earlier court decision favoring the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Industry, Local 324, for handling of certain installation work.

The appeal was granted with costs against the journeymen and apprentices.

But Mr. Justice Smith termed the squabble "a disheartening case" and said it could have been avoided if the two union groups could have agreed on what specific work to do.

Litigation could have been avoided by a litle "give and take," he said.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Vancouver Armory Gutted In Early Morning Blaze

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—One of the city's oldest landmarks was levelled early this morning when fire destroyed the Irish Fusiliers' armory at the entrance to Stanley Park.

Every available piece of equipment and all firemen were called out to fight the fire but it could not be brought under control and it burned to the ground shortly after the alarm was turned in at 4 a.m.

Fire department officials could not say how the three-alarm fire started and were unable to estimate the damage.

Officials closed off the Lion's Gate Bridge and motorists were requested to use the Second Narrows Bridge to travel to the North Shore.

DETECTIVE ROBBED

VANCOUVER—A city detective watching a drug cache was jumped by a thug early this morning and robbed of his gun.

FISH TREATY

VANCOUVER — B.C. fishermen want Russia brought into a new treaty for the conservation of fisheries in the north Pacific.

At present Japan, the United States and Canada operate under a treaty but fear is felt that increasing fishing by other nations could deplete stocks.

An official of the left wing independent United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, now in convention here, said: "We think it's about time the four countries got together and set up some kind of research program."

DRUG SMUGGLING?

VANCOUVER—A Vancouver night club operator has been charged with smuggling narcotics into the United States.

Held in Whatcom County Jail, Bellingham, Wash., on a federal warrant is John Harris, 34, operator of the New Orleans Club Cabaret. He was arrested while crossing the border.

IT'S MANSLAUGHTER

VANCOUVER — Chadwick William Campbell, 20, was convicted Thursday of a reduced charge of manslaughter in the death of a night watchman last Sept. 2 during a safecracking at a storage company warehouse here.

Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean remanded him for sentence at the end of the present assizes.

Campbell was one of three men charged with murder in the death of Vaino Alto, 69, whose body was found in a driver's shed near a wrecked safe. The other two were convicted earlier of manslaughter and will also be sentenced later.

NABBED IN HOLDUP

PENTICTON — Four youths were arrested within 20 minutes of a corner store robbery here Thursday afternoon.

An undetermined amount of cash was taken from the store and another $100 from a newsagent who was in the store at the time.

BRITISH SPIRITUALIST SAYS SHE 'TALKED' TO MACKENZIE KING THREE WEEKS AGO

Ex-PM Much Happier on 'The Other Side'

By PETER MATTHEWS

Late prime minister Mackenzie King "visited" a British spiritualist three weeks ago and told her he was "enjoying life much better on the Other Side than on Earth."

This startling revelation was made on the CBC-TV show "Close-Up" Thursday night by Mrs. Helen Hughes, a Scottish practitioner of the occult science. She was being interviewed by Douglas Leiterman.

King also told her that he knew about the Liberal party setback in 1957 and 1958 but always stood ready "to help the party."

The CBC show, second in a two-part attempt at video autobiography, confirmed once and for all stories that the late prime minister was actively interested in spiritualism.

None of his colleagues, however, would concede that he allowed this interest to influence his political decisions.

Several said they regarded it as "an interesting hobby."

One secretary, Edouard Handy, said he "felt it his duty to warn Mr. King" that public knowledge of the interest could severely damage his political career.

"Think what would happen if the Tories got hold of it," chuckled biographer and historian Fred McGregor. "They could have charged the Liberals with 'government by spooks'."

Another secretary said: "I didn't pay much attention to it. It was his business. He kept his papers on the subject in a separate room and we didn't meddle. We called it 'The dark room' and left it alone."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, interviewed on the same show, said he was aware of King's interest in the occult during his lifetime but "since it hadn't been discussed then, I'd prefer not to discuss it now."

Leiterman said that research had shown King visited spiritualists in Winnipeg, Hamilton, Detroit, Chicago and Atlantic City, as well as the U.K., during his lifetime.

A British writer and spiritualist named Miss Cummings told Leiterman of a King visit. She was not aware of his identity and was "embarrassed" later when she learned she had been talking to the prime minister of Canada in rather peremptory tones.

A practitioner of "automatic writing," in which psychic persons are said to take down direct messages from people who have died, Miss Cummings read from a letter which purported to come from the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt told King, in the letter, that he was to watch out for trouble in Asia. He addressed King as "Mac."

(Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, later in the same broadcast, confirmed that King had been reluctant to have Canada participate in a Korean study, a year before the war broke out in that country.

("He seemed peculiarly sensitive to the area.")

"While King was alive, did he ever communicate with his beloved dog, Pat?" Mr. Leiterman asked.

Mrs. Hughes replied: "No, I don't think it's possible to communicate with animals."

"Could you put me in touch with Mr. King now?" the CBC man asked.

"Not just like that," Mrs. Hughes replied. "One has to prepare for these things. And one never knows when one can get through."

"When did you last talk to King?" Leiterman asked.

"Three weeks ago," the spiritualist replied.

Earlier, the British spiritualists had said that King at various times talked to his mother and "other members of his family" while still prime minister of Canada. He died in 1950.

In the first half of the broadcast, various Canadians who had known King continued their assessment of his life and career.

Professor A. M. Lower of Queen's, explained an equation he had devised to define King: "CV plus TB divided by two equals K."

Asked to explain he said: "Cardinal Villeneuve plus Tim Buck, divided down the middle, equals Mackenzie King."

What he meant, Professor Lower said, was that "King ended up somewhere in the middle, as the average Canadian.

"He had a somewhat feminine intuition which enabled him to sense the pulse of his people."

Times editor Bruce Hutchison, interviewed at Shawnigan Lake, said that King was "a greedy man—greedy for fame, for money, and above all, for power.

"Considering that he was in many ways a small man, the total Mackenzie King was far greater than the sum of his parts.

"I would say that he and Sir John A. Macdonald were the two greatest statesmen of our history. Undoubtedly Macdonald was a much more attractive man, but it is hard to say who will be adjudged the greatest by history."

What Many Early Birds Missed in the Mist

Latecomers to the Dallas Road waterfront today got an excellent view of the giant aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, but early risers were disappointed as mist obscured the ship 2½ miles south of Ogden Point, as she waited to take Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner aboard. Photo above shows the RCN's training yacht HMCS Oriole, with naval officer cadets aboard, as she ran alongside the huge bulk of the ghostly-grey carrier. Shortly after 9 a.m. the Coral Sea swung along the waterfront, one-half mile from shore, to give hundreds of spectators a good look at her 63,500-ton, 978 feet bulk. See photos, story, Page 13. Safe Blown As Yeggs Defy Police

Haul of $1,000 From City Store

Professional safecrackers, defying a crackdown by city police, overnight Thursday blew open a city firm's vault and escaped with $1,000.

The theft, the latest in a long string of safecrackings and burglaries, occurred at the retail store of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co., 2619 Bridge Street.

Only five days ago, after a bullet punctuated car chase, police arrested two men and charged them with attempted break-in at People's Credit Jewelers Ltd., 1104 Douglas.

At least three others escaped in a hail of police bullets after their car was rammed by a policeman's private car.

FROM VANCOUVER

Police blame the crime wave on professional Vancouver gangs.

The burglary at Moore-Whittington came as a surprise to police who were hopeful the gangs would move out following the capture of two of their number.

The thieves, believed three, broke a third-storey window to enter the hardware store of the lumber company.

They gained access to the safe by removing some boards from the wall halfway up the staircase.

Then they planted dynamite on top of the brick wall of the safe and blew a hole two feet in diameter.

They entered the safe, smashed the mechanism of the safe's door and opened it.

COFFEE MONEY

Cash, including about $50 of employees' coffee money, was taken by the thieves who also ransacked the company records.

They took their time in doing their job. They used the employees' hotplate to make coffee. Three empty cups were found.

They also used some company tools, such as axes and crowbars, to facilitate their way into the safe.

The theft was discovered this morning when the store was reopened.

WEST URGES WORLD-WIDE ARMS CENSUS

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers today proposed a world-wide census of existing armed forces and weapons as a first step toward a disarmament treaty.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch made the suggestion on behalf of the five Western delegates at another closed session of the 10-nation disarmament conference.

He said the control of any* agreed disarmament measures would be an illusion without full information on the size and strength of existing armed forces.

Echoing the West's most insistent demand, Moch said adequate control and inspection to insure compliance must be an integral part of any disarmament agreement.

Big Western Powers Lose Sea Law Vote

GENEVA (AP) — The big Western maritime powers suffered defeat in a vote on a significant procedural matter in the 84-nation law of the sea conference today. Latin American, Asian-African and Communist delegations lined up against them.

The vote on the second day of the conference may have a decisive effect on the month-long negotiation of a new universal limit of territorial waters and coastal fishing rights.

The conference decided by a vote of 41 to 30 that discussion of a proposal or amendment which has once been voted on may be taken up again only if two-thirds of the delegates agree. There were seven abstentions.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, Sir Gerald Fitzmaurice of Britain and George Drew of Canada led the fight against the change in the conference rules, which was proposed by Mexico's Alfonso Garcia Robles.

The old maritime nations favor a six-mile limit for the territorial sea, while an apparent majority group seeks international recognition for a minimum limit of 12 miles. Apparently neither of the two groups has the necessary two-thirds majority to make either concept a principle of international law.

In this situation, where one or two votes may be decisive, bargaining outside the conference sessions plays an important part.

HUGE U.S. WASTE?

Buried Treasure 'Orgies'

TORONTO (CP) — United States military personnel at an isolated northern Ontario base are burying thousands of dollars worth of material ranging from washing machines to outboard motors, the Ontario legislature was told today.

Albert Wren (L., Lab-Kenora) said the weird burial parties were conducted at a radar base between Sioux Lookout and Hudson.

Bulldozers are shoving earth over washing machines, outboard motors, skiffs and other material at the rate of $35,000 worth a week, he said.

"I could cry," Mr. Wren said, "when I think of the people there who have never had a washing machine."

Mr. Wren, in whose riding the base is located, said he knew no reason for the burial project. It was done on orders from Washington and perhaps Ottawa.

ROYAL WEDDING 'LIVE' ON BRITISH TELEVISION

LONDON (UPI)—Permission was granted today to make Princess Margaret's marriage the first royal wedding in history to be televised live.

Cameras and microphones will be placed in Westminster Abbey on May 6 to broadcast and televise Margaret's wedding to former photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Permission for live broadcasts came from the Dean of Westminster.

Queen Elizabeth's wedding in 1947 was broadcast by the BBC, but not televised.

A BBC spokesman said the amount of the ceremony to be shown depends on the wishes of the Royal Family and the Abbey authorities.

Hope Given Up For 4 in Tunnel

TORONTO (CP)—Hope was practically abandoned today for four construction workers trapped in a water-choked tunnel 30 feet underground in suburban North York.

Six were caught in the six-foot high tunnel when a flash fire started by a short-circuited cable cut them off from the exit passage. One man was dragged out by a two-man rescue team and the body of the other was brought up early today. A seventh man had managed to scramble out by himself.

Seven hours of dramatic rescue operations had to be halted at 11.15 a.m. PST. A labor department official at the scene said:

"There is no hope for the four trapped men."

Police and construction company officials identified the four still trapped as John Fusillo, 27, Guido Mantella, 23,

FULTON MUM ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Commons members failed today to get any indication from the government on whether it plans legislation dealing with capital punishment.

Justice Minister Fulton refused to comment on the newspaper report of a speech in Winnipeg Tuesday by John MacLean (PC-Winnipeg North Centre) saying he understands the government plans to propose legislation limiting hanging to certain types of murder.

The B.C. government's supply bill authorizing the expenditure in the next fiscal year of $331,120,119 passed third reading in the legislature at 11.30 this morning.

The House adjourned until 2 p.m. for discussion of motions by private members.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross was expected to prorogue the House at 5 p.m. after sitting 37 days in a seven-week session.

Bomb Probe As 63 Killed

TELL CITY, Ind. (UPI)—Civil Aeronautics Board experts and the FBI dug into a blackened 50-foot crater today to learn whether a bomb or some other instrument of sabotage sent 63 persons falling 18,000 feet to their deaths aboard a new Northwest Airlines' passenger plane.

Four of the victims were Canadians.

A C.A.B. spokesman said the $2,400,000 turbo-prop, carrying 57 passengers and six crewmen from Minneapolis and Chicago to Florida, "obviously broke up in the air." He said searchers would "investigate all possibilities, including a bomb.

Edward Slattery, information chief of the C.A.B., said the agency's men also would check whether "metal fatigue or some other undue stress in the plane" caused the craft to disintegrate over the Ohio River valley and plunge into a soybean field Thursday afternoon.

FBI agent-in-charge Edward Powers, heading nearly a score of G-Men at the scene, said the FBI was there "to determine whether there were any violations within our jurisdiction, principally the possibility of sabotage."

State troopers still were gathering up remains in bags today and carting them away to a high school gymnasium in nearby Cannelton.

"There are no bodies," Slattery said.

An early morning air search spotted the tail assembly of the plane in the rough hill country a mile and a half east of the central crash scene.

Volkswagen Stock Going on Market

BONN, Germany (AP)—The lower house of the West German parliament has approved a sweeping measure to put Volkswagen stock on the market with shares selling at around $60 each.

The measure will become law when approved by the upper house. No difficulties are expected there.

The plant has been under control of the West German government since it assumed power in 1949.

$2.1 Million From Oil-Gas Lease Sales

Bids totalling $2,130,044 were accepted Thursday by the B.C. department of mines and petroleum resources on 18 of 23 parcels offered by sealed tender.

Highlight of the sale was a bid by Imperial Oil Ltd. of $461,756 for an exploration permit of 82,090 acres located north of 38 degrees north latitude, just inside the B.C.-Alberta border.

Top lease acreage bid was made by Sinclair Canadian Oils Ltd. and Pacific Petroleums Ltd., who bid $227,124 on Parcel 294 of 350 acres—about $649 per acre.

A total of $2,163,508 was received by the department including bids, fees and rentals.

CPR Earnings Down in '59, Revenue Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway Co. had net earnings of $31,288,931 or $1.97 a share last year compared with $32,903,038 or $2.09 in 1958, the annual report has disclosed.

Railway revenue totalled $477,805,874 against $467,410,853. Expenses, including provision of $21,500,000 for incomes taxes in 1959 and $19,200,000 in 1958, were $441,759,581 and $430,919,006 respectively.

N. R. Crump, president, attributed increased revenue largely to higher freight rates and increased expenses chiefly to higher labor costs and income tax.

Income from other than railway operations was $12,677,751 compared with $13,408,712.

Capital expenditures amounted to $109,000,000 which included $67,000,000 on railway plant and equipment, $20,000,000 on aircraft leased to Canadian Pacific Air Lines, $12,000,000 on steamships and the rest on communications, hotels and other properties.

Mr. Crump said that during the year the dieselization program was brought close to completion, plans were advanced for new freight and marshalling yards, centralized traffic control signal systems were installed in new areas, piggyback services were extended and the new service integrating the handling of merchandise traffic was introduced in British Columbia.

Barley also had moderate activity with shippers making occasional purchases.

Sharp declines on the Chicago rye market were reflected on the rye trade at Winnipeg.

SIU MEMBERS ACCUSED OF HELPING RIVALS

7 Men Go on Union Trial Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the independent Seafarers' International Union said seven SIU members will appear before a union trial committee here today to answer charges they actively supported a rival union in a waterfront jurisdictional dispute.

Phil Borstad, chairman of the SIU committee on the ferry Kahloke, said those charged are employed on Black Ball Ferries Limited vessels.

He said they were accused of giving support to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) in the current struggle for jurisdiction over west coast seamen.

Those to appear before the five-man trial committee include Jimmy Sutton, Al Fritz and stewardess Pat Horton, all of the Kahloke, and four crew members of the ferry Chinook.

Also scheduled for today is a B.C. Supreme Court hearing of CBRT's claim it should have been named bargaining agent for about 145 Black Ball employees during a recent application before the Labor Relations Board.

ISLAND DIGEST

AUTHORITY IN BIBLE—PRICE

'Use the Whip On Bad Boys

Judicious use of the whip may be needed in dealing with boys who show "an absolute contempt for the laws of society," Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) told the legislature Thursday night.

He said whipping might be necessary to persuade those boys they cannot openly defy law and order.

Mr. Price was discussing an estimate of $446,846 for operation of the Brannen Lake School for Boys, near Nanaimo, during the coming fiscal year.

He declared too many age groups and different types of offenders are thrown together at Brannen Lake. He suggested there should be two schools:

1. For the type of boy who can obviously be rehabilitated.

2. For the boy who has only contempt for the laws of society.

When challenged by CCF members regarding use of the whip, Mr. Price replied:

"The Good Book gives authority for this when it says spare the rod and spoil the child."

He said Brannen Lake had to deal very largely with "a young individual who, by virtue of ambition or exuberance, may have gone beyond the laws of society."

'This School Failing in Its Job'

"Somewhere down the line," he continued, "this school is failing in its job. These boys return again and again into the steel cage."

"Do you think there should be steel cages?" asked Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

"Don't be silly," replied Mr. Price, explaining that he did not mean this literally.

He believed the present serious trend towards delinquency could be cut in half in about five years, but not under the present administration.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black admitted the problem is serious but said there could be no easy solution.

He said boys of all types were sent to Brannen Lake by the magistrates and the government had no control over this practice.

"But we shall do all we can to tackle this problem," he declared.

Mr. Turner said the population at Brannen Lake School is "much too high." He considered the industrial school at New Haven to be a prime example of what could be done with a small resident population.

Attorney - General Robert Bonner said the government had high hopes of arresting juvenile delinquency by extended use of the probation system for first offenders.

IF SERVICE DOESN'T IMPROVE

B.C. Takeover Asked on E & N

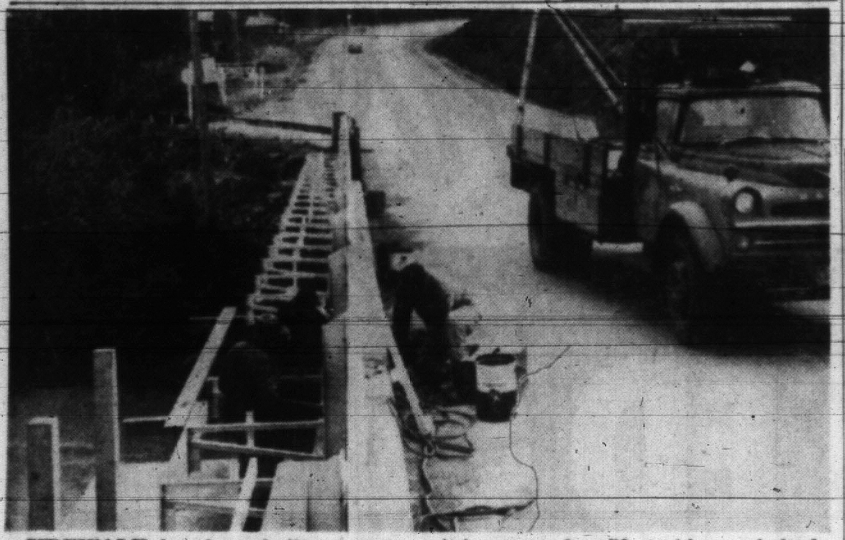
If the E & N Railway cannot provide full freight and express services, then it should be taken over by the B.C. government, Shawnigan-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute declared this week.

In a brief presented to U. B. McCallum, district inspector for the Board of Transport Commissioners, farmers complain express and freight services in Cobble Hill have deteriorated to the point where some do not even exist.

If maintenance of these services cannot be achieved, the brief states, "it is suggested that the government of B.C. assume the operation of this railway, and the subsidies, past and present, be used to establish and maintain full and efficient public service on this railway, and so fulfill the obligations of the E and N Railway contract."

Present and past grants and subsidies not used for the railway should be returned to the B.C. government to be earmarked and used for erection of hospitals and schools with the E and N land belt.

"Failing this, it is requested that all land grants and subsidies now enjoyed by the E and N Railway be withdrawn, and all encumbrances in its favor registered against the property titles of local land owners be deleted," the brief concludes.



SIDEWALK has been built on east side of Trans-Canada Highway bridge over Koksilah River, south of Duncan. To be of benefit to Cowichan Indians, it is mounted on 50 steel braces bolted through concrete curb, and will keep pedestrians off highway area of bridge. (Photo by D'Arcy Rickard.)

Fund Started For Family Of Sea Victim

A fund has been started in the Colwood and Langford districts to help Mrs. Howard J. Smith, whose husband was drowned Saturday evening near Crofton when the canoe in which he was riding upset in Stuart Channel.

In charge of the fund is Rev. Donald A. Hatfield of St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, and St. Matthew's Church, Langford. Donations may be sent to him at the Rectory, 520 Mount View Avenue, Colwood.

Mrs. Smith and her four children live at 837 Orono Avenue, Langford. She is expecting another child.

Mr. Hatfield said it is hoped sufficient money can be raised to pay off a mortgage on the home.

Water Pipe Extension Approved

(From Duncan Bureau)

NORTH COWICHAN—Municipal council has approved a City of Duncan plan to build a $25,300 mile-long water pipe extension to the city water system to serve residents in the Lakes and Wicks Roads area of the municipality.

Duncan city council will give final consideration to a necessary amendment to the waterworks bylaw at its next meeting.

The bylaw provides for a tapping fee of $60. In addition the property owner will pay $1.50 per foot, or a half-share of the original pipeline construction cost. The time limit provided for is 10 years.

The amendment must be approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and the Public Utilities Commission.

The city plans to build one mile of pipe at cost of $25,300, of which $4,700 will be returned under the federal winter works program provisions.

Residents in the vicinity of Lakes and Wicks Roads have raised $16,000 towards the cost of the pipeline. The residents are underwriting the cost and dealing with the city.

Re-Elected

TOFINO—Mrs. Harold Arnet was re-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Tofino General Hospital at the recent annual meeting.

Mrs. E. R. Hagelin was named vice-president and Mrs. William Sharp, treasurer.

'OTTAWA FAILING ISLAND MINERS'

Provincial aid to the Tsable River coal mine at Cumberland was asked in the legislature Thursday by Dan Campbell (SC, Comox).

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan promised his department would give the operation every consideration.

Mr. Campbell also said the federal government is failing the miners.

He said the federal government had refused to help with a loan to sustain the coal mining industry there.

"They refuse to extend the same consideration to the mining industry in western Canada as they extend to mines operating in the east.

LATECOMERS GET GOOD LOOK DESPITE HAZE

Carrier Nudges Close In Dallas Road 'Review'

By MONTE ROBERTS

Despite a heavy haze hanging over Juan de Fuca Strait, hundreds of Victorians got a good look at the 63,500-ton aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea as she passed the Dallas Road waterfront this morning bound for Vancouver.

Her commanding officer, Capt. J. S. Gray Jr., authorized a course which brought the 978-foot ship one-half mile from the Ogden Point breakwater, then past Holland Point, Beacon Hill Park and Clover Point shortly after 9 a.m.

Dallas Road was lined with cars and people from the Pilotage station to Ross Bay.

The U.S. ship was wearing the flag of a Canadian naval officer, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Admiral Rayner went aboard at 8.30 a.m. in an RCN helicopter while the Coral Sea was lying near the pilotage buoy, 2½ miles south of the Ogden Point breakwater.

The RCN 'copter was the second aircraft to land on the Coral Sea's flight deck since her re-commissioning Jan. 25.

Admiral Rayner was greeted by a U.S. Marines guard of honor and the ship's band, drawn up on the flight deck. He officially welcomed Capt. Gray and his ship to Canadian waters.

Before the arrival of the admiral, a press party was put aboard the ship from an RCN harborcraft, but not without difficulty.

TOO HIGH

The mast of the harborcraft was just two feet too high to allow the small craft to lie alongside the carrier's companionway, and the mast struck against an overhanging bay in the Coral Sea's side.

The carrier put a motor launch overside to pick up the press representatives, lowering the launch on a crane, then picking it up and returning it to the ship, with passengers and crew still aboard.

Capt. Walter Gosse of the B.C. Pilotage Authority went aboard at 8.45 a.m. The giant ship was his responsibility until she docked at Vancouver, the largest ship ever to pass through the First Narrows.

The Coral Sea's flight deck is longer than three football fields. At the widest point, it is 230 feet in beam. From keel to top of the mast, the ship is as tall as a 20-story building.

A floating city, she is home to 3,000 men drawing a monthly payroll of over $225,000. There's everything aboard for living as well as fighting facilities ranging from shoe repair shops to volleyball and basketball courts, from a daily newspaper office to ice cream plants and a steam room.

75 PLANES

Although there are no aircraft aboard today, when the Coral Sea is at fighting strength she will carry over 75, including the A3D jet-powered Sky Warrior, which weighs in excess of 60,000 pounds. She'll also have the F8U Crusader (jet fighter), the F3H Demon (jet all-weather fighter), the A4D Sky Hawk (smallest jet bomber) and the AD Sky Raider (internal combustion fighter-bomber.)

The big ship can steam at a speed officially termed "in excess of 30 knots."

She will be at Vancouver until Monday morning, when she leaves for Seattle.

Gray holds five distinguished flying crosses, five air medals, the treasury department gold life saving medal, two presidential unit citations and two navy unit citations. He also holds the Pacific campaign ribbon with five stars and the occupation medal with Asiatic and European clasps. He has served with the USN since 1936.

Navy Reserve Unit Praised By Inspector

Annual inspection of HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve unit, was highlighted Thursday night by the presentation of the Adams Trophy for safe flying to the VC-922 air squadron.

Commodore E. W. Finch-Noyes, commanding officer of naval divisions, from Hamilton, presented the trophy to Lieut. Cmdr. D. J. Slader, commanding officer of the reserve naval air squadron.

Commodore Finch-Noyes praised the Patricia Bay-based air squadron for winning the trophy for two years in succession, first time this has been accomplished in the history of the trophy. VC-922 hasn't had an accident since July, 1957.

RECRUITING BETTER

Commodore Finch-Noyes also spoke of the encouraging upswing in recruiting among the 21 naval divisions in Canada and singled out the Victoria unit for great achievements in this regard.

The fact that HMCS Malahat is based at the seashore and next to a helpful RCN force, has been a great factor in keeping recruiting at a high level, he said.

Members of Malahat are able to get in day cruises in small harbor craft and this too has helped keep up interest, the commodore said.

City 'Over the Hump' On Unemployment

20% Less Demand Seen Next Year

A hopeful forecast that next winter will see a drop in high levels of unemployment marked the start of city council's annual budget grind today.

City health and welfare budgets were scanned and passed on to council for a final say at the opening session of a series of committee meetings to screen departmental estimates for 1960.

Total estimated expenditures for health and welfare, up by $34,600, were left unchanged after 1½ hours of scrutiny in committee. The parks budget also was to be sifted today.

Next week, finance and public works committees will begin going through their estimates.

TRIMMING

Committee-approved items then will go to city council for trimming before the 1960 mill rate is struck. Deadline for completion of the entire process is May 15.

Welfare administrator William Hooson told committee that he is "optimistic" this year's decline in winter unemployment will continue next winter.

He estimated that only $120,000 will be required to meet the needs of winter jobless, down $13,500 from last year despite a 20 per cent increase in benefits.

"I am estimating a drop of 20 per cent," he said.

"The winter of 1958-59 was the worst I have ever experienced and I hope I never see it again. We were getting upwards of 500 new cases a month compared with a normal, that is pre-1956, of 25.

"But there was a drop during this past winter, thank goodness, and I am hoping that next winter will be better."

The general 20 per cent boost in allowances by the provincial budget this year will raise city expenditures for assistance to indigents by $67,250 to $460,000.

RECOVERABLE

But most of the money will be recovered from the provincial government which pays 90 per cent of pooled welfare expenditures by B.C. municipalities.

The gross expenditure estimated for this year by Mr. Hooson is $1,071,621, compared with $956,456 in 1959. But the net cost to ratepayers will go up only $37,021 to $222,121 after government grants are received.

Fate of Accused In Murder Trial Known Soon

Case of Edith Etheline (Ivy) Davis, 48, accused of the murder of her husband here 13 years ago, went to the jury at 12.45 this afternoon on the fourth day of her Assize Court trial.

Mr. Justice D. R. Verchere began his charge to the jury at 10.35 a.m.

The jury has four choices, he said: To convict for murder, not guilty of murder, to convict of manslaughter, or to acquit by reason of insanity.

If the jury fund Mrs. Davis was incapable of knowing the nature and quality of her alleged act at that time because of insanity, she should be acquitted, he said.

The justice discounted any possibility of suicide or an attack by a third person in the death of William A. Davis, then president of Davis Motors Ltd., who was killed by a throat slashing with a butcher knife Oct. 9, 1947.

The accused was sitting in a chair near the body, which was found on the carpet in the living room. Her own throat was cut and her wrists slashed.

She was subsequently found unfit to stand trial by reason of insanity, and spent 12 years in Essondale mental home. Psychiatrists judged her sufficiently sane to face the charge at this time.

Old Courthouse Fate Uncertain

There is still no decision on what will be done with the existing Victoria Courthouse when the new Law Courts are opened, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said in the legislature today.

He renewed a pledge which Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said was made in 1956, that the government will build a new courthouse at Duncan but didn't set a date.

SOCREDS OUTSPENT OTHERS 3 TO 1 IN ROSSLAND WIN

The Social Credit Party spent almost three times as much as any other party in campaigning for the by-election won by Don Brothers (SC, Rossland-Trail) in December, 1958.

The by-election was held following the resignation of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, who later was jailed for bribery and conspiracy.

A reply to a question filed on the legislature order paper showed candidate Brothers spent just under $2,000, while the Social Credit central committee spent $14,981. The Progressive Conservative Party spent just under $6,000, the Liberals $4,046 and the CCF $1,904.

Threat to City Denied by Chant

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said today he wasn't threatening Victoria when he said earlier that press criticisms might cause delay in government grants to the city.

But he added, "The concentration of government buildings doesn't have to be in the capital city."

This wasn't a threat either, he said. But he is only one man on cabinet, and when newspapers "distort the facts" it makes it difficult. "When you belittle what another is doing, it doesn't make them feel like doing it."

He said, "I represent the city . . . I want to get it all possible," but the tone of some newspaper editorials makes it difficult.

George Gregory (Lib., Victoria) opened discussion on Mr. Chant's estimates this morning—the first morning session since 1958 and the only one this session. It was called to speed final business in preparation for prorogation this afternoon.

Mr. Gregory recalled that in an earlier speech the minister castigated an editorial. It had said Victoria loses tax revenues through the fact the government pays no taxes locally. It pointed out, the government contributions to the Capital District Improvement Commission was not proper compensation and did not help the city budget.

Mr. Gregory said the minister's reply, that this attitude could delay assistance to the city, implied a threat. "I think it was disgraceful."

Man's Condition 'Poor' After Street Assault

An elderly man is in poor condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today from head injuries received when he was struck on the head by a young man on Broad Street Thursday night.

John Fallardeau, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today of assulting James Cruikshank, 73, of 233 Menzies Street.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him for sentence until Saturday.

"I would like to hear a further report on the man's condition before passing sentence," he said.

Police testified that Fallardeau, who has a criminal record, struck Mr. Cruikshank for no apparent reason.

Fallardeau said he was drunk at the time and could not explain why he had hit the elderly man.

Victim of Fall Still Critical

Condition of a 74-year-old woman who fell onto concrete steps after dropping 21 feet from the window of her second-storey bedroom, was described as "critical" by officials of St. Joseph's Hospital today.

Mrs. Alice Wild, a guest of Beacon Hill Rest Home, 635 Superior Street, suffered internal injuries, two fractured legs and a fractured elbow and wrist in the fall.

No one saw the accident or heard any scream from the falling woman.

Bomb Probe As 63 Killed

TELL CITY, Ind. (UPI)—Civil Aeronautics Board experts and the FBI dug into a blackened 50-foot crater today to learn whether a bomb or some other instrument of sabotage sent 63 persons falling 18,000 feet to their deaths aboard a new Northwest Airlines' passenger plane.

Four of the victims were Canadians.

A C.A.B. spokesman said the $2,400,000 turbo-prop, carrying 57 passengers and six crewmen from Minneapolis and Chicago to Florida, "obviously broke up in the air." He said searchers would "investigate all possibilities, including a bomb.

Edward Slattery, information chief of the C.A.B., said the agency's men also would check whether "metal fatigue or some other undue stress in the plane" caused the craft to disintegrate over the Ohio River valley and plunge into a soybean field Thursday afternoon.

FBI agent-in-charge Edward Powers, heading nearly a score of G-Men at the scene, said the FBI was there "to determine whether there were any violations within our jurisdiction, principally the possibility of sabotage."

State troopers still were gathering up remains in bags today and carting them away to a high school gymnasium in nearby Cannelton.

"There are no bodies," Slattery said.

An early morning air search spotted the tail assembly of the plane in the rough hill country a mile and a half east of the central crash scene.

Power Debate As House Set To Prorogue

The final phase of the fourth session of the 25th legislature opened this afternoon with an echo of the debate which set the theme this year—the question of B.C.'s future power development.

With one eye on the clock and the knowledge that by inter-party unofficial agreement, prorogation would take place in presence of Lieutenant-Governor Frank Mackenzie Ross at 5 p.m., the CCF made a last attempt to gain publication of all details of Peace River power development plans.

This was subject of a resolution filed earlier by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. The earlier debate was adjourned by government house leader Robert Bonner.

He said today the minister of lands and mines had already explained the feasibility report of the PRPD company was under technical study by world-renowned experts. It could not be published nor discussed in the House for fear the airing of political views would influence these considerations.

CCF spokesman Gordon Dowding pointed out in reply that the question of private development of the Peace should be studied also by the B.C. Energy Board to ensure that besides being technically feasible, the scheme was in the best interests of the people of the province. The fight seemed far from resolved at press time, although it was evident a vote on the resolution would see the CCF swamped.

FULTON MUM ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Commons members failed today to get any indication from the government on whether it plans legislation dealing with capital punishment.

Justice Minister Fulton refused to comment on the newspaper report of a speech in Winnipeg Tuesday by John MacLean (PC-Winnipeg North Centre), saying he understands the government plans to propose legislation limiting hanging to certain types of murder.

Mrs. Davis Not Guilty Of Murder

Mrs. Edith Etheline Davis was found "not guilty by reason of insanity" by an Assize Court jury at 1.30 p.m. today after being out only three-quarters of an hour.

Mr. Justice Verchere said she would be returned to Essondale Mental Hospital and kept there "in strict custody until pleasure of the lieutenant-governor is known."

$1,000 HAUL IN LATEST SAFECRACKING

Yeggs Defy Crackdown

Professional safecrackers, defying a crackdown by city police, overnight Thursday blew open a city firm's vault and escaped with $1,000.

The theft, the latest in a long string of safecrackings and burglaries, occurred at the retail store of Moore-Whittington Lumber Co., 2619 Bridge Street.

Only five days ago, after a bullet punctuated car chase, police arrested two men and charged them with attempted break-in at People's Credit Jewelers Ltd., 1104 Douglas.

At least three others escaped in a hail of police bullets after their car was rammed by a policeman's private car.

FROM VANCOUVER

Police blame the crime wave on professional Vancouver gangs.

The burglary at Moore-Whittington came as a surprise to police who were hopeful the gangs would move out following the capture of two of their number.

The thieves, believed three, broke a third-storey window to enter the hardware store of the lumber company.

They gained access to the safe by removing some boards from the wall halfway up the staircase.

Then they planted dynamite on top of the brick ceiling of the safe and blew a hole two feet in diameter.

They entered the safe, smashed the mechanism of the vault door and opened it.

COFFEE MONEY

Cash, including about $50 of employees' coffee money, was taken by the thieves who also ransacked the company records.

They took their time in doing their job. They used the employees' hotplate to make coffee. Three empty cups were found.

They also used some company tools, such as axes and crowbars, to facilitate their way into the safe.

They apparently left by a side door.

The theft was discovered this morning when the store was reopened.

What Many Early Birds Missed in the Mist

Latecomers to the Dallas Road waterfront today got an excellent view of the giant aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea, but early risers were disappointed as mist obscured the ship 2½ miles south of Ogden Point, as she waited to take Rear-Admiral H. S. Rayner aboard. Photo above shows the RCN's training yacht HMCS Oriole, with naval officer cadets aboard, as she ran alongside the huge bulk of the ghostly-grey carrier. Shortly after 9 a.m. the Coral Sea swung along the waterfront, one-half mile from shore, to give hundreds of spectators a good look at her 63,500-ton, 978 feet bulk. See photos, story, Page 13. WHIP SCOTLAND 11-8

Canadian Curlers Lead Title Play

AYR, Scotland (CP) — A three-rock count in the 11th end gave Canada an 11-8 victory over Scotland today in the first game of the best-of-five series for the Scotch Cup, emblematic of world curling supremacy.

Canada's Ernie Richardson rink from Regina, winners of the Canadian curling title last week, engaged the Scottish champion, Hugh Neilson, in a see-saw battle for much of the contest.

Scotland counted the first rock in the first end and went into a 3-2 lead after three. After six ends, the score was tied 5-5. In the seventh, Canada counted two and was never behind again.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Richardsons, who swept all five matches of the inaugural series last year.

The Scots, whose rink has an average age 10 years younger than last year, showed surprising strength as they battled the Richardsons on even terms for much of the contest.

Hope Given Up For 4 in Tunnel

TORONTO (CP)—Hope was practically abandoned today for four construction workers trapped in a water-choked tunnel 30 feet underground in suburban North York.

Six were caught in the six-foot high tunnel when a flash fire started by a short-circuited cable cut them off from the exit passage. One man was dragged out by a two-man rescue team and the body of the other was brought up early today. A seventh man had managed to scramble out by himself.

Seven hours of dramatic rescue operations had to be halted at 11.15 a.m. PST. A labor department official at the scene said:

"There is no hope for the four trapped men."

Police and construction company officials identified the four still trapped as John Fusillo, 27, Guido Mantella, 23,

ROYAL WEDDING 'LIVE' ON BRITISH TELEVISION

LONDON (UPI)—Permission was granted today to make Princess Margaret's marriage the first royal wedding in history to be televised live.

Cameras and microphones will be placed in Westminster Abbey on May 6 to broadcast and televise Margaret's wedding to former photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Permission for live broadcasts came from the Dean of Westminster.

Queen Elizabeth's wedding in 1947 was broadcast by the BBC, but not televised.

A BBC spokesman said the amount of the ceremony to be shown depends on the wishes of the Royal Family and the Abbey authorities.

WEST URGES WORLD-WIDE ARMS CENSUS

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers today proposed a world-wide census of existing armed forces and weapons as a first step toward a disarmament treaty.

French disarmament expert Jules Moch made the suggestion on behalf of the five Western delegates at another closed session of the 10-nation disarmament conference.

He said the control of any agreed disarmament measures would be an illusion without full information on the size and strength of existing armed forces.

Echoing the West's most insistent demand, Moch said adequate control and inspection to insure compliance must be an integral part of any disarmament agreement.

The St. Leger Stakes for three-year-olds was first run in 1776, four years before the first English Derby.

AUTHORITY IN BIBLE—PRICE

'Use the Whip On Bad Boys'

Judicious use of the whip may be needed in dealing with boys who show "an absolute contempt for the laws of society," Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) told the legislature Thursday night.

He said whipping might be necessary to persuade those boys they cannot openly defy law and order.

Mr. Price was discussing an estimate of $446,846 for operation of the Brannen Lake School for Boys, near Nanaimo, during the coming fiscal year.

He declared too many age groups and different types of offenders are thrown together at Brannen Lake. He suggested there should be two schools:

1. For the type of boy who can obviously be rehabilitated.

2. For the boy who has only contempt for the laws of society.

When challenged by CCF members regarding use of the whip, Mr. Price replied:

"The Good Book gives authority for this when it says spare the rod and spoil the child."

He said Brannen Lake had to deal very largely with "a young individual who, by virtue of ambition or exuberance, may have gone beyond the laws of society."

'This School Failing in Its Job'

"Somewhere down the line," he continued, "this school is failing in its job. These boys return again and again into the steel cage."

"Do you think there should be steel cages?" asked Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East).

"Don't be silly," replied Mr. Price, explaining that he did not mean this literally.

He believed the present serious trend towards delinquency could be cut in half in about five years, but not under the present administration.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black admitted the problem is serious but said there could be no easy solution.

He said boys of all types were sent to Brannen Lake by the magistrates and the government had no control over this practice.

"But we shall do all we can to tackle this problem," he declared.

Mr. Turner said the population at Brannen Lake School is "much too high." He considered the industrial school at New Haven to be a prime example of what could be done with a small resident population.

Attorney - General Robert Bonner said the government had high hopes of arresting juvenile delinquency by extended use of the probation system for first offenders.

Big Western Powers Lose Sea Law Vote

GENEVA (AP) — The big Western maritime powers suffered defeat in a vote on a significant procedural matter in the 84-nation law of the sea conference today. Latin American, Asian-African and Communist delegations lined up against them.

The vote on the second day of the conference may have a decisive effect on the month-long negotiation of a new universal limit of territorial waters and coastal fishing rights.

The conference decided by a vote of 41 to 30 that discussion of a proposal or amendment which has once been voted on may be taken up again only if two-thirds of the delegates agree. There were seven abstentions.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, Sir Gerald Fitzmaurice of Britain and George Drew of Canada led the fight against the change in the conference rules, which was proposed by Mexico's Alfonso Garcia Robles.

The old maritime nations favor a six-mile limit for the territorial sea, while an apparent majority group seeks international recognition for a minimum limit of 12 miles. Apparently neither of the two groups has the necessary two-thirds majority to make either concept a principle of international law.

In this situation, where one or two votes may be decisive, bargaining outside the conference sessions plays an important part.

Extension Approved

NORTH COWICHAN—Municipal council has approved a City of Duncan plan to build a $25,300 mile-long water pipe extension to the city water system to serve residents in the Lakes and Wicks Roads area of the municipality.

Duncan city council will give final consideration to a necessary amendment to the waterworks bylaw at its next meeting.

The bylaw provides for a tapping fee of $60. In addition the property owner will pay $1.50 per foot, or a half-share of the original pipeline construction cost. The time limit provided for is 10 years.

The amendment must be approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and the Public Utilities Commission.

The city plans to build one mile of pipe at cost of $25,300, of which $4,700 will be returned under the federal winter works program provisions.

Residents in the vicinity of Lakes and Wicks Roads have raised $16,000 towards the cost of the pipeline. The residents are underwriting the cost and dealing with the city.

Fund Started For Family Of Sea Victim

A fund has been started in the Colwood and Langford districts to help Mrs. Howard J. Smith, whose husband was drowned Saturday evening near Crofton when the canoe in which he was riding upset in Stuart Channel.

In charge of the fund is Rev. Donald A. Hatfield, of St. John's Anglican Church, Colwood, and St. Matthew's Church, Langford. Donations may be sent to him at the Rectory, 520 Mount View Avenue, Colwood.

Mrs. Smith and her four children live at 837 Orono Avenue, Langford. She is expecting another child.

Mr. Hatfield said it is hoped sufficient money can be raised to pay off a mortgage on the home.

7 Men Go On Union Trial Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the independent Seafarers' International Union said seven SIU members will appear before a union trial committee here today to answer charges they actively supported a rival union in a waterfront jurisdictional dispute.

Phil Borstad, chairman of the SIU committee on the ferry Kahloke, said those charged are employed on Black Ball Ferries Limited vessels.

He said they were accused of giving support to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) in the current struggle for jurisdiction over west coast seamen.

Those to appear before the five-man trial committee include Jimmy Sutton, Al Fritz and stewardess Pat Horton, all of the Kahloke, and four crew members of the ferry Chinook.

Also scheduled for today is a B.C. Supreme Court hearing of CBRT's claim it should have been named bargaining agent for about 145 Black Ball employees during a recent application before the Labor Relations Board.

Re-Elected

TOFINO—Mrs. Harold Arnet was re-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Tofino General Hospital at the recent annual meeting.

Mrs. E. R. Hagelin was named vice-president and Mrs. William Sharp, treasurer.

'OTTAWA FAILING ISLAND MINERS'

Provincial aid to the Tsable River coal mine at Cumberland was asked in the legislature Thursday by Dan Campbell (SC, Comox).

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan promised his department would give the operation every consideration.

Mr. Campbell also said the federal government is failing the miners.

He said the federal government had refused to help with a loan to sustain the coal mining industry there.

"They refuse to extend the same consideration to the mining industry in western Canada as they extend to mines operating in the east.
